JAPANESE CHECKED SOUTH OF KIUKIANG

CHINESE CAN HOLD LINES INDEFINITELY

Eye-Witness Tells Of Bloody Fighting And Attackers' Failure

Mahweiling, Aug. 11.

A Japanese battery silenced by three direct hits from a Chinese battery was one of the first scenes witnessed by Reuter's correspondent as he arrived at the battle-front to-day in time to watch an artillery duel in which the Japanese were trying to force a weak spot in the Chinese defences.

The Japanese are pounding away at what they hope is China's Achilles heel in an effort to end the stalemate on the south side of the Yangtse River that has lasted now for over a fortnight.

The flashes from the Japanese guns were plainly visible as the shells whizzed back and forth over the green landscape, under the shadow of the majestic Lushan Mountain, on the summit of which lies Kuling and its 300-odd foreigners.

Below the hill forming part of the Chinese defences, where Reuter's correspondent crouched, machine-guns barked viciously as Japanese patrols encountered the Chinese defences in bloody engagements. Evidence of these engagements were glimpsed as this correspondent was en route to the battlefield, in coolies bearing bundles containing captured Japanese rifles, bayonets, etc., and also in the constant string of wounded walking or being carried on stretchers along the blood-bespattered path.

The entire battlefield is visible from the hill chosen as a vantage point. Away in the distance is the Yangtse River, which appears as a grey line on the northern horizon.

Big German Plane Hops Over Ocean

Lufthansa Experiments With Land Machine

New York, Aug. 11.

A four-motored Focke-Wulf monoplane landed at Floyd Bennett Airport at 3.50 p.m. E.S.T. to-day, after completing a crossing of the Atlantic in 24 hours 57 minutes non-stop.

The machine, which has been named the "Condor", is an all-metal plane with a wingspread of 100 feet, and is capable of cruising at 100 m.p.h.

It is owned by the Lufthansa Corporation and is the first land-type plane to make an experimental crossing of the Atlantic for this German corporation.

The "Condor" will leave New York on Saturday for the return non-stop flight to Germany.—United Press.

SECRET DEPARTURE

FRENCH FRANCS UNEASY

Control Board Forced To Hurry To Support

Paris, Aug. 11.

It is understood that the Bank of France has requested all banks in France to cut down forward dealings in francs to a minimum.

The Foreign Exchange market is again nervous and the French Control Board was compelled to intervene and defend the franc by large sales of sterling.

The latest rumour in the financial district is to the effect that dealings in gold coins may be barred.—Reuter.

DELAY OF RESPONSE EXPLAINED

No Lack Of Goodwill Among Insurgents

London, Aug. 11.

It is authoritatively stated that the Insurgent authorities have informed the British Agent in Burgos, Sir Robert Hodgson, that the delay in answering the British communication regarding the plan for the withdrawal of volunteers was exclusively attributable to the complicated nature of the document, and not to any lack of goodwill.—Trans-Ocean.

TURKISH PROTEST LODGED

Japanese Parley's Purpose Suspect

Istanbul, Aug. 11.

The "mystery meeting" of Japanese diplomatic and trade representatives at the Turkish capital has at last aroused the opposition of the Government.

The semi-official Anatolian News Agency announces that the Turkish Foreign Office has sent a note to the Japanese Ambassador on the subject, recalling press reports that the conference was directed against Soviet Russia.

Whilst expressing doubt concerning the accuracy of this assertion, the note goes on to say that in view of the particularly friendly relations existing between Turkey and Soviet Russia, it would be difficult to suppose that Turkish soil had been chosen by the Japanese delegates as the venue for a conference pursuing anti-Soviet aims.

Apart from that, Turkey could neither expressly nor implicitly tolerate within her boundaries a conference directed against another State.

The Note continues: "If the conference had been purely economic it might have been expected that the Japanese Government would have taken steps to inform the Turkish Government of the fact. In the absence, the Turkish Government feels bound to bring its views to the knowledge of the Japanese Government."

The meeting of the Japanese diplomatic and commercial representatives, which was summoned by the Ambassador at Istanbul, is being held in the Turkish capital behind closed doors, and no statement has been issued regarding its purpose.

Ambassadors, diplomatic and consular representatives and trade representatives were summoned from the Balkans, Soviet Russia, the Near East and the Middle East.—Trans-Ocean.

680 CASUALTIES IN SEVEREST ATTACK IN WAR'S HISTORY

Fleet of 30 Junks Blasted And Entire Crew Killed

Hankow, Aug. 12.

The heaviest Japanese air attack yet made on Chinese cities occurred yesterday afternoon, 680 being killed and injured and 437 houses destroyed. More than 100 Japanese bombing planes appeared over 13 towns in Hupeh, dropping altogether nearly 200 bombs, most of which fell in thickly populated districts.

Particularly serious was the damage in the towns of Wuhan and Hanyang close to Hankow. Altogether 63 Japanese planes were counted over these two towns alone.

In the bombardment of the munition depots of Hanyang, which had but shortly before been evacuated, a great number of bombs were dropped in the densely populated poorer districts on the Han River. Most of these bombs caused deaths.

A fleet of 30 junks was completely destroyed and the crews killed.

DIFFICULT TASK IN PALESTINE

Britain Seeking Peace And Justice

London, Aug. 11.

The British High Commissioner and the British Military Commander in Palestine are facing a task as difficult as any that has confronted the British military authorities in any country since the Great War, and their co-operation inspires confidence.

This declaration was made by the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, in a broadcast to-night, in which he described his recent visit to Palestine.

Mr. MacDonald said that the British Government would administer its trust on the basis of justice between the Jews who were building at long last a national home, and the Arabs, whose title to the land of their birth was indisputable.

Sometimes, added Mr. MacDonald, man's powers of conciliation and creation appeared puny, but there was a spirit that brooded over Palestine, and with God's help, peace would be restored to the Holy Land.—Reuter.

Hankow, Aug. 12.

Three Japanese warships were sunk and five more badly disabled by bombs dropped by Chinese airmen during another raid on the Yangtse River near Kiukiang yesterday.

An undisclosed number of Chinese bombers took part in the raid. The ships which were hit were seen to catch fire, sending columns of black smoke skywards. Three of them were later reported to have sunk, leaving the smokestacks and the masts above water.

The Chinese planes returned to their base safely.—Central News.

SPORTSGIRL--PLAYS TENNIS

Court make-up

YOUR make-up for tennis must be one that will last, that won't get shiny or caked, that will protect your skin from too much sun, and will keep you looking cool and unruffled. Here are some do's and don'ts:—

Do:

Start by dabbing your face all over with astringent lotion to close the pores and tighten up the skin generally.

Use a light foundation lotion or vanishing cream; anything that is at all greasy will work out through the powder and start to shine as soon as you get hot.

Put on a good thick coat of powder—and see that it is evenly distributed over your nose and forehead, too.

Put a touch of vaseline on your eyelids, but not eye shadow.

Use a moderate-coloured lipstick—nothing brilliant—and powder your mouth over after it's made up to keep the lipstick from smearing.

Don't:

Use much rouge—none at all, if you can, because when you get hot and your natural colour rises, it will make the rouge stand out and look artificial.

Put any mascara on your eyelashes. It won't look right anyway, and is bound to run and sting your eyes. Brush your lashes with a touch of vaseline instead.

Let your hair run wild over your face. Tie it back with a piece of petersham ribbon. If you are particularly anxious to keep your hair in curl, wear a fine invisible net, exactly the same colour as your hair.

Wash your face in cold water when you come in hot; sudden change of temperature is bad for your skin. Wash it in tepid water, and take off the make-up with a soft cleaning lotion.

QUICK NEW STRENGTH AFTER ILLNESS

After a severe illness you feel so weak, you often despair of ever getting your strength back. Especially after operations, or wasting and other diseases, that affect your digestion, the thought of food is distasteful. Yet you must rebuild your body—you must have highly nourishing food.

Doctors everywhere recommend Horlicks as the food that not only can be easily digested, but that stimulates your faded appetite and pours quick new strength into your exhausted body.

Convalescence is shortened and in an amazingly short time you feel full of vigour and strength. Always keep Horlicks ready at hand.

In these difficult times of anxiety and worry, the task of carrying on and doing work which must be done is a doubly difficult one which must tend to exhaust one's nervous energy.

Horlicks builds up strength, vitality and prevents that listlessness and tiredness caused by constant nervous strain. H. M. Hodges, 408-409, Asia Life Building.

Glostora

First Impressions are important. A few unruly hairs can ruin the most carefully dressed outfit.

Glostora conquers unruly hair—keeps every strand in place—adds sparkling lustre to your hair.

FOR LUSTROUS HAIR

—The most practical outfit is shorts and a shirt

CUT and line must be as good in your sports clothes as they are in your best evening frock. Better, perhaps, because you won't have any drapes or trimmings to deceive the eye. Nothing could be more simple—and practical—than a shirt-and-shorts outfit for tennis; nothing can look smarter if the cut is right.

There are three rules for smart shorts:—

1. Have them made in a fairly firm material that will wash well, press well, and not crush. Worsted flannel, for instance.
2. Don't have them too short; girl in the picture has hers a good length; shorter than that shows a rather ugly line of leg.
3. Have them absolutely plain-tailored, with enough fabric to get the hang and swing of a skirt.

WEAR as many coloured sweaters as you like, but stick to white for your basic tennis outfit; it always looks fresh and cool.

The girl in the picture here is wearing white worsted shorts, white shirt, and a lighter-than-navy blue blazer jacket and scarf. She's tied her hair back with a blue ribbon, has a blue stripe on her socks.

Notice the slanting side seams on the shorts; they are a slimming line for the hips. Pleats are put in at the sides, leaving front and back to hang straight, waistband is stitched.

Shirt is plain, like a man's, with one link button at the neck. (If you want to make it a bit individual embroider your monogram on the left side.)

Tucked in the neck, a lighter-than-navy blue silk square, matching the blazer jacket, to wear between sets. This blazer buttons up the front with brass buttons, has revers but no collar, turn-back short sleeves.

Topcoat is white serge, easy-fitting, cut to hang straight but belted across the back. White socks, made of a porous silk and cotton mixture, have a navy blue stripe running round their turnover edge; shoes, fairly solid, lace from near the toe.

Alternative to the shorts and shirt suggestion is so straightforward that it needs no fashion drawing: a white frock, made of thick silk or pique, with no sleeves, a plain V-neck, and a skirt with an inverted pleat back and front.

Bits to cut out Skimmed Stock

ADD a cupful of cold water to your stock when it comes to the boil. You will find it much easier to skin.

Colour Problem

IF your cerise coloured lace curtains have faded you can freshen them and get the colour back if, when you are washing them next, you add a teaspoonful of strained coffee or tea to the rinsing water.

Crack-Proof

PIE dishes and casseroles can be made to bear better the strain of hot ovens without cracking if when they are new they are put into a large saucepan of cold water. Use a low gas and bring to the boil—boiling for about five minutes.

Tightlaced

IF you tie your shoe laces this way they can't come undone and trip you up. Before pulling the two loops tight, pass the right-hand loop a second time through the middle. Then pull the two tight.

Golf Organizer to Be Honoured

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Russell W. Montague, one of the founders of the first organized golf club in the United States, will be honoured during the White Sulphur Springs Open golf tournament here next November. Montague is a resident of Richmond, Va., and will make the trophy presentations during the tournament here.

Try this drink when you're hot and tired

IF you have a husband who leaves his appetite on the overcrowded 5.15 or children who come in from play too tired and hot to enjoy their food, give them this nourishing cold drink and leave solids until they feel rested.

Blend three tablespoons of orange juice and one of lemon juice with three tablespoons of slightly warmed honey until they are perfectly mixed.

Add a pinch of salt and then beat in, a little at a time, half a pint of cold milk. The honey will prevent the milk curdling—although the drink may thicken a little—but it is safer not to make it until just before it is wanted.

The quantity is enough for three people.

SHOT "L" RIDER'S LONE TRIPS BY NIGHT REVEALED

Friend Tells Of Strange Request

With an Army revolver, an air pistol, and a dagger in a sheath beside him, John Hamilton Owen, 20-years-old bank clerk, of Cardigan-street, Bow, was found shot dead on the Hog's Back, Surrey, recently. He was in a sitting position under an oak tree, the revolver between his legs.

Behind this tragedy of lonely death in a beauty spot lies the history of weeks of nervous strain and anxiety.

In his efforts to escape from what ever worried his last anxious days John Hamilton Owen used to ride far into the night in his unhappiness.

In an interview with a reporter Mr. D. G. Minnis, of Castelnau, Barnes, S.W., said: "I can hardly believe it possible that my friend is dead. He was always so happy and jolly. He could not have been in money trouble as he certainly did not live extravagantly."

"I now understand a strange request he made a week ago. It was that I should go for a fast ride with him in the middle of the night."

WENT ALONE

"He suggested we should start at 2 a.m. This was too early for me, so I said I did not think I could go. He went alone."

"Next morning he rang me up and said he could not join in a run. We had fixed up as he was dog-tired."

"He had been riding alone through the night and go home after 5 a.m."

"I first met him at school. We went to the City of London School. He was a crack shot and could use a rifle."

"He had shot at Bisley, but I only remember his taking part in revolver shooting on one occasion."

PHONE S O S

Owen was found by Mr. W. D. Rattigan, a London motorist, who noticed an untended motor-bicycle. Investigating, he found the dead man and informed an A.A. scout and a passing police officer.

Following a telephoned S O S. Inspector Russell, of the Surrey County Police, motored to the scene and took charge of investigations.

The first impression that a murder had been committed was discounted when he found the revolver between the legs of the dead man.

"L" PLATE

Death was apparently instantaneous, the bullet having passed through the temple and out at the back of the skull into the tree.

Papers indicated that the motorcyclist came from Bow, and relatives journeyed to Guildford to identify him. His motor-cycle bore an "L" plate, and had been parked carefully at the side of the road.

Owen was educated at the City of London School, and was a clerk at the Commercial Bank of the Near East, at Bishopsgate.

"He went out on Wednesday evening after a big meal," his widowed mother, Mrs. S. Owen, former school teacher, said to a Sunday Dispatch reporter, "and I have not seen him since."

"On Thursday I informed the police, and on Friday evening I went to Whips Cross to see if a body there was my son's. It was not, but it gave me a terrible shock."

CHIEF PUZZLED

Mr. H. N. Athridge, joint manager of the Commercial Bank of the Near East, said at his Richmond, Surrey, home that he was puzzled over the tragedy.

"There is absolutely no suggestion that the lad was in any kind of trouble at the bank," he said.

"He was a good worker, and a very promising lad. I am very sorry about it."

Dummy Bomb Falls Near Mother And Child

Death missed the wife of a naval officer and her little daughter by inches at Gosport recently when a dummy bomb from an R.A.F. aeroplane fell into some public gardens and penetrated eight inches into a path.

Mrs. Euman, wife of Lieutenant T. Euman, of the Submarine Depot, Fort Blockhouse, who lives at St. Mary's Avenue, Gosport, was walking with her daughter in Foster Gardens, Alverstoke.

"We had just risen from a seat," she said, "when I heard an aeroplane overhead."

"Suddenly there was a swish and the bomb dropped on the path immediately in front of me. I was frightened and pulled my little girl back."

The explanation given at the R.A.F. station, Gosport, was that the bomb was released by a mechanical defect, the development of which was an extreme chance.

Danced With Knee Out Of Joint

Irina Baronova, the first ballerina of the Russian Ballet company at Covent Garden, put her knee out of joint near the end of "Les Cent Balaisers," the first ballet last month and had to be carried off the stage by David Lichine.

The audience, unaware of what had happened, believed it was part of the ballet.

She next had to dance in a first-night revival of "Firebird," an exacting part of the greatest technical difficulty which she had never danced in this country before.

As there was no one else who could fill the role she had to go through with it. She gave a rather blurred performance, and although her leg was visibly swollen, still danced with enough brilliance to hide the accident from the audience.

As she was being carried out from the stage door to be driven to a specialist, she told me how she survived the second ballet, says a Correspondent.

"We pressed the bone into joint," she said, "but after 'Firebird' it came out again."

... Irina Baronova is 16 years old and one of the few big names that the present Covent Garden company possesses.

JAMAICA'S SUGAR QUOTA

Kingston.—The statement in Parliament recently by the Secretary for the Colonies, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, that there was no likelihood of Jamaica obtaining an increased sugar quota this year has been received here with deep concern.

Mr. MacDonald's statement is taken to mean that next year there will be a large number of labourers on estates unemployed during the gathering of the crop. This will add to the economic difficulties of a population at present undergoing hardship through lack of employment.

Kingston's Transport System.—Owing to the early abandonment of the tramway system in Kingston and its suburbs, the Jamaica Government is asking the Crown Agents to secure an expert from the London Passenger Transport Board to come to the island to report on the best system to take its place.

£16,500,000 DROP IN WOOL INCOME

Sydney.—Though the official figures, showing a huge Federal surplus and smaller surpluses in most States, are welcomed, there is concern that the year's wool income has dropped by £16,500,000 as compared with last year. The effect on Australia's balance in London is also viewed with anxiety.

The overseas trade of the Commonwealth showed that the year's favourable balance was only about £12,500,000, as compared with £30,000,000 last year, which means that the London balance must be drawn on to the extent of £10,000,000 to meet debt charges in London.

The Federal Government nevertheless insists that there is no cause for anxiety in view of the accumulations built up in the past two or three years.

Fears of the effect of the growing use of wool substitutes on the world demand for wool are increasing here.

WELFARE OF NATIVE POPULATION

Cape Town.—The first National Convention of Organisations interested in the welfare of the coloured people of the Union, who number more than 750,000, ended recently.

A resolution was passed condemning the policy of segregating Europeans from coloured people in the residential areas, and calling on provincial councillors to vote against the draft ordinance which is to be introduced in Parliament with this object.

Senator Re-elected.—Mr. W. E. Thrash was re-elected to the Senate from which he resigned at the last election to fight the Illovo seat in the Assembly for the United party. Mr. Thrash was first elected Senator in 1929.

CONSERVATIVES AND DEFENCE

Ottawa.—The National Conservative Convention has passed a resolution declaring that the defence of Canada could best be promoted by consultation and co-operation between all members of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

The Convention also unanimously approved the changing of the name of the party from "Liberal Conservative" to "National Conservative."

PROHIBITION IN BIHAR

Calcutta.—It is claimed that the three months' experiment in Prohibition in the Saran district of Bihar has been successful. The district covers an area of 2,800 square miles, inhabited by 2,500,000 people.

It is admitted, however, that thousands of persons living on the borders of the territory have obtained alcoholic liquor outside the prohibition area.

Emigration to Malaya.—The Indian Government has stopped assisted emigration to Malaya. According to the last official figures published, the number of Indians resident in Malaya was 859,377. In 1936 the Government deported Mr. Srinivasa Sastri to review conditions in the country. His report was satisfactory.

"Cease Fire"
Order In Border War
Demilitarisation Of Zone Next Step

Tokyo, Aug. 11. Both the Japanese and Russians ceased fire punctually at noon to-day in accordance with the terms of the truce arranged in Moscow, states a Japanese despatch from the frontier zone received here.—Reuter.

DE-MILITARISATION

Tokyo, Aug. 11. Although press despatches report that Mr. Shigenori and M. Litvinoff agreed to cessation of hostilities at noon to-day, a full report from Moscow appears to have been received too late to implement the decisions.

Inquiries at the War Office at 3.45 p.m. whether the order to cease fire has been sent to the front elicited a non-committal reply.

Meanwhile a War Office communiqué alleged that Soviet troops carried out an offensive at 7.30 a.m. and fighting was still going on at 10 a.m.

It is understood that once the armistice has been implemented the next step will be to secure virtual demilitarisation of the disputed zone until it is redeployed.—Reuter.

AGREEMENT RESPECTED

Tokyo, Aug. 11. The crisis in Soviet-Japanese relations was practically solved to-day as the roar of gunfire died down along the eastern frontier of Manchukuo in accordance with the truce agreement reached in Moscow.

Both Japanese and Soviet forces halted military actions at noon and quietly confronted each other within a distance of several hundred yards separating the rival forces.—Domei.

The Commander of the Chinese forces estimates that the present strength of the Japanese is three divisions, comprising over 60,000 men.

Personal observations made by Reuter's correspondent confirm the Chinese observations, leading to the conclusion that the Japanese forces will have the greatest difficulty in reaching Nanchang over country which is ideal for defence purposes.—Reuter.

SUDETENS
MEET
HODZA'S
GROUPImportant Conference
On Czech Problem

Prague, Aug. 11.

The most important development in the Czechoslovakian nationalities problem since Lord Runciman's arrival occurred this afternoon, when the Sudeten delegates, led by Dr. Kunt, met the Cabinet sub-committee presided over by the Premier, Dr. Milan Hodza, and a Parliamentary committee of six, with the President of the Czech Senate and the President of the Chamber in attendance.

The Sudeten and Parliamentary representatives held their first real discussion at this meeting on essential problems connected with the nationalities problem.

The inclusion of the Parliamentary Committee in the meeting was the result of hard bargaining, and makes the Government delegation more unwieldy than Dr. Hodza had hoped.

A communiqué states that Dr. Hodza explained the Government viewpoint on his own measures and the Sudeten memorandum.

Discussion will be resumed on Wednesday next week, when the Sudetens will reply to the Premier's argument.—Reuter.

Two Extremes in Taxes

London, Ont. The deadline for paying the income tax assessment was approaching. Two men were standing in line awaiting their turn. The first finally reached the receiving window and handed the clerk $4,000,000—believed the largest income tax payment of the year. When the first man had finished, the second then stepped up. He reached in his pocket and pulled out his income tax—a nickel.

DAUGHTERS KEPT MOTHER'S DEATH A SECRET
No Man In House For 30 Years
ONLY CONTACT WITH WORLD WAS THROUGH A LETTER-BOX

Beatrice Ward, aged 43, and her 40-year-old sister Gertrude walked from their home in Minnis Road, Birchington, Kent, recently—and left behind a lifetime spent among oil-lamps and cowbells, with talks through the two-inch gap of a letter-box as their only contact with the world.

A few hours earlier police had broken open a door and entered the house. On a bed they found the sisters' 83-year-old mother. It was the first time men had entered the house since 1907.

She had been dead three months. Her body had been preserved.

The sisters were crunched together on a bed in the next room. It was at the beginning of the century that Mrs. Florence Matilda Ward, broken-hearted by the death of her husband, came to live at Birchington, where she had played as a child on holiday visits with her father, Colonel Greatorex, wealthy Hampshire landowner.

Her marriage to a wealthy Broadstairs doctor had been a love match. When he died suddenly she parted from relations and friends to spend the rest of her life in seclusion with her two daughters.

She had £1,000 for the house in Minnis Road.

MIDNIGHT STROLLS

When it was destroyed by fire a few years later neighbours had to drag her from the house to save her and the two children.

With the few odd pieces of furniture saved from the fire Mrs. Ward moved into another £1,000 house in Minnis Road.

Nobody remembers having spoken to her or her daughters since. Tradespeople, who brought goods ordered by letter to the house, received cheques in payment through the letter-box.

Beggars and collectors for charities always had money handed to them in the same way.

Postmen brought registered letters, delivered them and received their receipts through the letter-box. Progress left the house untouched. Gradually it slipped into ruin. Oil lamps burned night and day in the sparsely furnished rooms and thick cobwebs covered windows and doors that had not been opened for nearly fifty years.

Sometimes, when the daughters were still children, they went late at night for bicycle rides with their mother.

Sometimes more recently the Ward family went into the country lanes for a midnight stroll. Neighbours saw them clad in long black gowns, with hair knotted in the fashion of thirty and forty years ago.

One oil lamp in the house was always kept burning. The two sisters made the police promise to keep it burning before they agreed to leave for a new home which has been built for them in Birchington.

The Wards are said to be connected with a well-known family.

Police found in old boxes in the house letters bearing the crest of Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle, clippings from old Court circulars and social news, souvenirs of balls and ceremonies in the 'eighties and 'nineties.

BATTLESHIPS
Building Cost In U.S.
And Britain

The five British battleships now being built, King George V, Prince of Wales, Anson, Jellicoe, and Beatty, will be ships of 35,000 tons, armed with 14-inch guns. The two new battleships to be laid down under this year's programme will carry 16-inch guns and will not exceed a standard displacement of 40,000 tons. France will adhere to the original Treaty limit of 35,000 tons, provided no other Continental Power exceeds it, and at present it seems unlikely that either Italy or Germany will wish to do so.

Taking the average prices of warship building in Britain and the United States, battleships of the sizes mentioned below would cost approximately as follows:

Tonnage	Britain	U.S.A.
35,000	£ 8,000,000	$12,000,000
40,000	£ 9,200,000	$13,700,000
45,000	£10,350,000	$15,500,000

Building charges in the United States are roughly fifty per cent. higher than in Britain.

OUR GUIDE TO THE CINEMAS

"Paradise For Two" (King's Theatre, to-day).—Our own Jack Hulbert and Hollywood's Patricia Ellis in a new, bright version of the old story about the millionaire and the chorus girl. One of England's very much better musical comedies.

"Wives Under Suspicion" (Queen's Theatre, to-day).—An unusual story, well-acted by the two principals, Warren William and Gail Patrick. Supporting the main picture is the film of the recent fight between Joe Louis and Max Schmeling for the heavyweight boxing championship of the world.

"Go Chase Yourself" (Alhambra Theatre, to-day).—Joe Penner and a wild ride down a mountain road in a runaway trailer are the pieces of resistance of this slapstick farce. Joe is the witless hero of a witless plot which requires him to save an heiress, capture bank robbers, and perform other foolish but entertaining feats. Lucille Ball, Richard Lane and June Travis are also in the cast.

"Hollywood Hotel" (Oriental Theatre, to-day).—To say that this is a Dick Powell picture is sufficient to give film fans an idea of what the film is like. Plenty of music, with the love interest supplied by Powell and Rosemary Lane and the humour by Hugh Herbert.

"Dead End" (Majestic Theatre, to-day).—One of Hollywood's serious pictures. A social drama with Joel McCrea and Sylvia Sydney.

MASSSED BOMBERS CAUSE CARNAGE IN WUHAN AREA

Killed or wounded in a devastating air raid on the Wuhan cities yesterday.

One hundred and two planes participated in the raids, but only 60 succeeded in entering the Wuhan area.

The Boone College of the American Church Mission was damaged when six bombs landed in the vicinity of the compound and four landed in the compound.

The Boy Scout Headquarters and the students' dormitory of the College were destroyed.

Bombs landed only 50 yards from the residence of Bishop A. Gilman, of the American Church Mission, who was in his house when the missiles exploded. A bomb splinter entered his living room.—Reuter.

FATEFUL MONTH—Considering that major conflicts of the last quarter century have begun in July, observers wondered what, if anything, would happen in July, 1938. The World War started July 28, 1914; Italy invaded Ethiopia in July, 1935; the Civil War started in Spain, July 19, 1936, and the Japanese invaded China, July 28, 1937. Above are scenes indicative of the wars. Top, Major General Clarence R. Edwards congratulates first men in his Yankee (26th) Division to receive the Croix de Guerre, in France. Inset, Italians struggle with a 120-mm. gun on the northern front in Ethiopia. Centre, anxious civilians in Barcelona, Spain, watch the return of Insurgent air bombers. Bottom, road near Shanghai, China, choked with troops and supplies for the Japanese army.

Four Years Of Lies Keep A Mother Happy

Hollywood.

Although Russ Colombo, film actor and dance band leader, died four years ago his 74-year-old mother still believes he is alive.

For every week a letter arrives from her son telling of his triumphs as he tours through Europe with his band. Russ's relatives are the writers, and it is their "white lies" which will enable this frail, little, woman to die happy.

On Sept. 2, 1934, Colombo was showing an old-fashioned pistol to his friends. It went off. Colombo crumpled, fell to the ground, dead.

Nobody dared tell his mother, who lay in hospital suffering from a heart attack. The shock would have killed her. So they read her a letter "from Russ," telling how he had suddenly received a cable offering him a big European contract and that he had had to rush away.

Her health continued to be delicate. The doctors still said it would be unwise to break the news to her. So a brother of the dead man and other relatives worked out a merciful deception.

They invented a European trip for Russ, and each week wrote a letter until the end.

telling of his experiences. The deception goes on. Every month a cheque for £80 arrives at Mrs. Colombo's home. She believes that it comes from her son who, wealthy and famous, is anxious that she shall have every comfort.

Actually the money is paid her under an insurance policy which Colombo took out.

Now, at seventy-four, almost blind, the old woman treasures nearly 200 letters "from Russ." Her eyesight is not equal to detecting that the handwriting is not her son's. Others read the letters to her over and over again.

Mrs. Colombo wishes he could find time to come and see her. But she is proud and happy that "her boy" is rich and famous.

She will remain proud and happy until the end.

MUDDLED DIPLOMACY

The unexpected has happened. Russia and Japan have agreed to patch up their dispute on the Korean-Manchukuo-Soviet border. Each side claims that the understanding is based upon the terms it offered, but it is of no great consequence who hit upon the acceptable formula. It is sufficient for gratification that the danger of extensive hostilities, and possibly the embroilment of other powers, has been avoided for a time at least; although commentators are generally agreed that this is merely a postponement of the inevitable. What appears to have happened is that Japan has made a diplomatic retreat, and has accepted the Russian contention that the negotiations to demarcate the Manchukuo-Soviet frontier shall be based on the old Sino-Russian treaty and maps of 1860. Previously the Japanese Government refused to recognise the validity of these documents, and it was here the deadlock occurred. Now Japan is willing to look at the evidence. That is sensible. At one time it seemed that neither side would make the slightest concessions or moderate its stand in any way for fear of losing "face" and weakening the national prestige. But all along both Russia and Japan must have recognised that their differences could not be settled by "isolated fighting" and that no matter which side had obtained an advantage, it would not have brought about a permanent peace. For this reason the Russians and Japanese—since it is impossible to blame one side more than another—have left themselves open to criticism for shortsightedness, stupidity and wastefulness in life and money, and a blundering diplomacy which could admit for a moment the possibility of a solution being found by force. Great Britain and the United States can point with some pride to the peaceful and practical settlement of their dispute over the sovereignty and future utilisation of Canton and Enderby Islands in mid-Pacific. By sane negotiation they have reached an understanding sat-

THE National Peace Congress has been meeting in Bristol. Attended by some 750 delegates representing 400 local and national organisations ranging from supporters of the League of Nations Union to members of the Peace Pledge Union, from representatives of the South Wales Miners' Federation to delegates from the Congregational Churches, from Communists to Baptists.

The variety makes for excitement, but it also makes for weakness. The weakness comes from disunity, for—let us be frank about it—there is no general agreement as to the steps we should take to seek peace and to ensue it.

Ever since the Abyssinian affair, the peace movement has been split on an issue of fundamental importance. Should we pursue a policy of Collective Security; form, if necessary, a new League of the peace-loving democracies, Britain, France, Czechoslovakia, the Scandinavian Powers, attach Russia and build upon this nucleus a united front to oppose aggression?

For Fascist aggression, it is argued, must be halted now or it will be too late; halted, that is to say, before Spain and Czechoslovakia have gone the way of Austria, and the dictators, triumphant, over a prostrate Europe, turn their attention to the British Empire.

It is a strong case, but there is another side to it. To stop Fascism we must be prepared to fight it. "It cannot be claimed," said one of the advocates of this view, "that in the following of this policy there would be no risk of war."

Many have pledged themselves to renounce the use of force as an instrument for gaining their ends, even if the ends be righteous. You cannot, they say, demonstrate superior right by superior efficiency in slaughter.

It is on these lines that the pacifists have argued, and their case, too, has force, as one of the supporters of "Collective Security" conceded by implication, when he confessed, "What I most dislike about this fellow Hitler is that, to withstand him, I have to become like him."

But it is idle to say—the clear-headed pacifist does not say—that the pacifist policy constitutes at the moment a practical method of avoiding war. For one thing, there is not the slightest prospect of this or any other country adopting it. Moreover, it is hard doctrine to preach to men indignant over the betrayal of Spain, horrified by the rape of Austria, appalled by the wave of barbarism that is sweeping across the world, that they should fold their hands instead of clenching their fists.

This is the controversy that for two years or more has rent the peace movement. But a practical spirit has informed the present Congress, which has thought it more important to discover the agreement that might exist than to exploit the disagreements that were known to.

As the Congress proceeded, it appeared that there were two main issues upon which pacifists of all shades of opinion felt able to combine. The first is a policy for removing the economic causes of war.

Of the many causes of war, none will deny the importance of the economic. It is concrete, it is real and it is one which can in large part be removed. It should be the part of the constructive peace worker to remove it.

By what methods? They have been stated over and over again, most recently and most authoritatively in the Van Zeeland report. Without accepting all the provisions of this report, the Congress showed it

Let us add the development and control of civil aviation and the preparation of plans for the settlement and assistance of refugees and we have a policy of constructive peace-making with which it would be a difficulty for anybody to find fault.

Secondly, there is the need for vigilance in the matter of our liberties. The memory of the last war is still vivid; the spectacle of the dictator countries all too clear. Each serves to remind us of a danger—forcibly brought out by Mr. Kidd, Secretary of the National Council for Civil Liberties—the danger lest in seeking to increase the country's efficiency in war, we may hand over our destinies to those who care for nothing but war efficiency.

There are proposals afoot, for example, compulsory participation in the National Fitness Campaign, compulsory participation in Air Raid Precautions schemes, plans for industrial conscription, for the dilution of labour in munitions factories, for the suspension of trade union regulations, each of which represents a step in the regimentation of the nation in the interest of military efficiency.

The Congress was unanimously resolved not to allow our liberties to be lost at home in order that we might be in a position to defend ourselves against the danger to liberty from abroad.

Here then, is a lowest common denominator upon which all those who care for peace can combine. The removal of the economic causes which are driving the nations to war, and the vigilant defence of the liberties of the citizen against the war machine.

NEWS FROM BUDAPEST

By W. Horsfall Carter

In six months' time, if you come back to Budapest, you'll find us completely Nazified. The speaker was a Socialist Journalist. The species still survives in Hungary, provided he is suitably tame. But it is what every Hungarian is feeling in his secret heart. And the nearer the prospect is seen the less it is relished.

Hungary—40 per cent. of whose foreign trade is with Germany—where the process of ideological assimilation has been going on steadily over a period of years, not least through the virtual monopoly enjoyed by the Information news agency (alias D.N.B.)—has only now come to realise her utter dependence on Nazi Germany; only now that, after the liquidation of Austria, the German colossus looms up within striking distance of her capital.

The history of Hungarian politics since the war has been the same as that of the other countries that have succumbed to Fascism: Parliament losing touch more and more with the people, and the governing class throwing up no leader strong enough to achieve in time social and economic reforms sufficient to stem the rising flood of discontent.

Hungary's "National" Government can devise no better expedient in the gathering storm than to try and take the wind out of their opponents' sails.

Hence the new anti-Semitic legislation which requires that Jewish control of any business or organisation shall not exceed 25 per cent. Hence, too, the Pressenouvelle, reinforcing the Governmental control of the Press and extending it to the book trade, hitherto unmolesied.

Another expedient is the Five Years Plan of public works and rearmament, which is the work of Dr. Imre, the very able Governor of the National Bank, and now Prime Minister.

Dr. Imre has made good use of the wireless in his few days of power and has certainly stopped the rot which set in after the shock of the Austrian coup. And if Hungary's problem were economic, the helm of State could not be in more capable hands. But Dr. Imre, like his predecessor, lacks peuple's appeal, and an ardent Catholic, he has no taste for the new demagoguery.

A visit to Budapest just now is thus a rather depressing experience, for all the human kindness and lavish hospitality of one's Magyar hosts.

Superficially, the disciplined uniformity of the totalitarian State seems very far away. With its cultivated intelligent ruling class of land-owning aristocrats—so unlike the Prussian Junker type—its abundance of newspapers, reviews and books of differing political shades, the eight and sometimes twelve-hour sittings of an overworked Parliament, etc.—Hungary would appear to possess a capacity of resistance to the Nazi steam-roller lacking in Austria or in the Balkans. The impression is true enough.

GRIN AND BEAR IT By Lichty

"Look! And all MY kid ever says is 'Daddy, gimme a dollar!'"

There can be no question of annexation of the Reich. German domination, on the other hand, seems unescapable. With Field-Marshal Racz as Minister of War, the Army in any case can be relied upon to be an obedient instrument of the German will, and in those "strategic" days the Army's role is decisive.

By opening the sluices to German influence, for the sake of securing a powerful champion of the national cause of treaty revision, the Magyar ruling class has undoubtedly prepared its own discomfiture, perhaps indeed dug its own grave.

More significant perhaps than any political trend is the fact that Hungarian owners of property are eagerly seeking protection from the wrath to come by securing foreigners as tenants at a ridiculously low rate.

Fear stalks abroad—and Hungary feels completely cut off from the West. The shadow of Herr Hitler is spreading like a huge shroud over what remains of civilisation in the Danubian basin. Not so much military or economic strength as "atmosphere" is what counts these days in Europe.

And the Western Powers remain the victims of their own inertia. Incapable, apparently, of building up the diplomatic, economic and military barrage for which thinking Hungarians pray.

That is why in this anniversary year of St. Stephen, who made Hungary Christian, a charming, civilised people seems doomed to take the first steps downhill towards a barbarous paganism.

GREAT FILM / COMBINES UNITE TO BOOST BRITISH PICTURES

Plan Means More U.S. Cash For Us

By Moore Raymond

TWO GREAT FILM CORPORATIONS, ONE BRITISH AND THE OTHER AMERICAN, HAVE COMBINED TO PRODUCE AND PUBLICISE BRITISH FILMS ON BOTH SIDES OF THE ATLANTIC.

This was announced recently by Gaumont-British and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer after conferences lasting a fortnight.

An official statement said that G.B. would in future produce for M.G.M. in this country, that M.G.M. would distribute these films in England, and that G.B. would handle them in America with its distributing organisation there.

Anglo-American co-operation of this kind will stimulate production in Britain, and will provide many thousands of pounds of American money for the making of those British films.

M.G.M. will in future put up half the cost of production of any film made by G.B. or its subsidiary company, Gainsborough Pictures.

Therefore two of the biggest film companies in the world (G.B. has capital of £6,250,000 and M.G.M. of £30,000,000) will be working together for their mutual benefit.

The official announcement issued jointly by Mr. Isidore Ostrer (chairman of Gaumont-British) and Mr. Sam Eickman (managing director of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in England) states:—

"The first of the films under this arrangement is 'The Lady Vanishes,' directed by Alfred Hitchcock.

"It will be followed by a Jessie Matthews picture, directed by Carol Reed; and another, starring Will Hay, directed by Marcel Varnel.

"Maurice Ostrer will be in charge of production, together with his producers, Edward Black and Victor Peers.

"The most recent success of the Gaumont-British and Gainsborough Studios, 'Owd Bob,' starring Will Fyffe, is making history at the moment in America.

"Undoubtedly Anglo-American co-operation and friendship will be furthered by this arrangement, and the advantages to G.B. and M.G.M. must also prove beneficial to the entire future of British films."

LION AND LADY

Mr. Maurice Ostrer said: "It is a feather in our cap to get the American distribution of the pictures we shall make for M.G.M."

"We have had a distributing organisation over here for years, and M.G.M.'s consent to our handling the British product we make for them shows how we are co-operating."

Asked if the two famous trademarks, the M.G.M. lion and the Gainsborough lady, would both precede any film made under the new arrangement, Mr. Ostrer said: "Yes, first the lion—then a title that states 'Gaumont-British presents a Gainsborough picture'—then the Gainsborough lady."

HOPE FOR FUTURE

I asked if the G.B. studios at Shepherd's Bush, where 200 people were thrown out of work when production ceased there in April last year, would reopen as a result of the new agreement.

"Not at the moment," Mr. Ostrer said. "We'll make the Will Hay film at the Gainsborough studios and the Jessie Matthews picture at Pinewood. But Shepherd's Bush may reopen later."

An M.G.M. official said: "This deal will not make any difference to our own production over here."

M.G.M., encouraged by the success of their 'Yank at Oxford,' starring Robert Taylor, have scheduled at least another six British films to cost nearly £1,000,000.

265 M.P.H. Torpedo Flying Boat

A Torpedo-carrying flying-boat, introducing a new class of aircraft, has been produced by the Bellanca Co. of the United States, and may be adopted for the American navy.

Torpedo-carrying aircraft were pioneered by Great Britain, and many squadrons of the R.A.F. and the Fleet Air Arm are equipped with them.

They are either land aircraft or are specially adapted for employment in carrier ships or other warships. In this respect, the new American type differs from them, for it is a flying-boat designed to co-operate with a fleet for defence against submarines. It is considerably faster than any British torpedo bomber in service.

There is, however, a new British type in production, the performance of which has not been divulged. Among new British designs not yet in production there is a torpedo-carrying flying-boat.

The "battleship submarine destroyer," as the new United States craft is called, has a twin "Wasp" engine of 950 h.p. It is claimed that it has a maximum speed of 205 miles per hour and a cruising range of 1,200 miles.

It carries a crew of four, with armament consisting of one 1,000lb. torpedo, three 200lb. bombs, and two fixed and four movable machine-guns.

Franco Gets His Revenge

GENERAL FRANCO got his own back on "Potato" Jones recently, two of seven bombs dropped from a lone hydroplane hitting and sinking the 1,451-ton steamer Dellwyn in the British-owned port of Gandia, south of Valencia.

The Dellwyn is one of three "Wyn" ships trading to Spain and is managed by Angel, Con and Co., of Cardiff. "Potato" Jones is a director of the company.

He made a name for himself in April 1937 by being the first captain to run General Franco's blockade of Bilbao.

His ship then was the 885-ton potato-carrying Marie Llewellyn; and his most-quoted "wisecrack"—"Spanish Navy? Never heard of it since the Armada."

Insurgent bombers never gave him peace after that, although he changed his ship.

ATTACKS WENT ON

At the end of last year he "swallowed the anchor" (retired), and bought himself an interest in the shipping company.

But Franco's attacks on the "Wyn" ships continued. The said on the Dellwyn was the sixth attempt to get her. She has been machine-gunned, and attacked with incendiary and high-explosive bombs.

No one was injured. Captain William Elliott and his crew were ashore when the Dellwyn was bombed.

The ship was sunk in only 16ft. of water, and her cargo of 1,500 tons of coal can be salvaged easily. The cargo has been authorised by the Non-Intervention Committee.

Gandia is not protected by anti-aircraft guns, and the raiding plane had a simple job. One bomb wrecked the dock sheds, another tore up 30ft. of railway track—all British-owned and prominently displaying the Union Jack.

Angel, Son and Company could not tell "Potato" Jones the news. They do not know where he was. "He's on holiday," a reporter was told, "somewhere on the coast between Swansea and Scotland."

Girl Baptised In The Sea

Part of a big crowd on Weymouth (Dorset) beach protested noisily after Pastor T. Ryder, of the Four Square Gospel Church, had baptised a girl and a man in the sea. People, arguing, surrounded the pastor.

The girl, Miss Gladys Jackson, twenty-one years old, of Park Road, Walford, Herts, claimed after the ceremony that she had been cured of paralysis.

Robert Wadlow, giant youth of Alton, Ill., as he went for an air ride in St. Louis, Mo. While still growing, Wadlow, who was 20 on Washington's birthday, is believed by scientists to be reaching the completion of his phenomenal stature. He stands 8 feet 8½ inches and weighs 465 pounds.

WED TO GET HER LEGACY OF £12,000

A GIRL who entered into a "marriage of convenience" so as to claim a big inheritance sat sobbing in the dock at Bow-street.

She was Mrs. Anne Godwin Mitchell, aged 22, of Curzon-street, Mayfair, W., who was placed on probation on condition that she temporarily entered a Church of England home.

She was accused of obtaining goods and credit by false pretences or fraud.

Mr. E. A. Carse, prosecuting, said in one case Mrs. Mitchell bought a suit worth £8 18s. 6d. and gave a cheque which was returned marked "R.D."

She also gave worthless cheques for meals at Quigley's Restaurant. In another case she hired a car and was driven to Croydon and back, and gave the chauffeur a worthless cheque for £3.

"It appears," said Mr. Carse, "that under her grandfather's will she was due to receive between £12,000 and £15,000 on attaining the age of 21 or if she married before."

FORGED CONSENT

"To get possession of this money she married a man named Mitchell in July, 1936. It was apparently purely a marriage of convenience to comply with the terms of the will."

"Mitchell apparently received some consideration, for I understand he has never lived with her. That is perhaps the beginning of all this trouble."

"At the time of the marriage they apparently forged the consent of their parents, for they were both under age and their parents knew nothing about it."

A banking account was opened for Mrs. Mitchell by the trustees. At Pontypriid, Glamorgan, continued Mr. Carse, and over a period £5,500 was paid in.

Other money had been advanced by the trustees. "From May, 1936, until early 1937," said Mr. Carse, "Mrs. Mitchell must have got through about £8,000 or £9,000, and after that a number of cheques, 87 in all, and one for £700, have had to be returned."

"THIS WILD ORGY"

"She was living the life of the very wildest extravagance, and having been known as a young woman of considerable wealth, no doubt that assisted her in getting this remarkable amount of credit."

There were other offences which Mrs. Mitchell wished to be taken into consideration.

Mr. Norman Parkes, defending, said Mrs. Mitchell's mother died three years ago. Her father was not well off.

"With all that money," he added, "Mrs. Mitchell soon became the prey of a large number of people—who 'sponged' on her and led her on in this wild orgy of extravagance."

Whatever happened, her husband was not in a position to support her, even if he wished to.

Born— But Not Officially

Police are faced with the strange task of helping babies in the Frimley, Camberley and Bagshot area of Surrey to prove that they are alive.

The year's register of births, marriages and deaths has been stolen from Camberley Registrar's office.

Until it is found people who have not copies of official registrations cannot legally prove their existence.

IN STOLEN SAFE

Burglars carried off an iron safe weighing 1½ cwt., and containing £20 in silver, a cheque book and the register.

"If it costs £1,000 we must have those books back," representative of the Registrar-General told a reporter.

AT 80— "PERFECT LOVE"

Twice married and father of ten children, the Rev. W. T. Dutton, of Cawley-road, Chichester, claims at the age of 80 to have found his perfect love.

He told the Sunday Dispatch recently.

"She is 60, and a widow, but doesn't look a day more than 40. 'It was a Whitsun romance and of all the hundreds of women I have met I know she is the one for me. She is filling a much-needed place in my heart.'"

His fiancée, whom he will marry next week, is Mrs. Halsey, of Chichester—and she has 10 children, too.

The filming of "Northwest Passage" here was seriously threatened owing to the scarcity of whiskey. However, an SOS call for 150 men and were not afraid of cold water two baby boys lying on the ground, finally solved the problem.

Urges Strong Stand Against Militarists

Moscow, Aug. 11. M. Bulgannin, Premier of Russia, whilst discussing the Soviet budget in Parliament to-day, dramatically turned to M. V. M. Molotov, President of the U.S.S.R., and exhorted him to "continue to pursue a vigorous and unyielding policy towards the Japanese militarists."

"We will not only approve of credits for national defence, but will request the Government to use them entirely to strengthen Soviet armaments," he added.—Reuter.

REFUGEE 2 DAYS HIDDEN IN SHIP: SEAMEN GAOLED

THE Home Office, concerned at the increasing number of illegal landings of aliens in Britain, has traced for the first time the people responsible for smuggling a refugee into the country, and as a result two seamen were sent for three months' hard labour at Hove (Sussex) recently.

It was found that a German Jew was smuggled across the Channel in a hiding place in a Dutch steamer, pitch dark and so small that he could not sit up. He lay there full length for 48 hours, without water, and with only a piece of chocolate for food.

This was revealed by the prosecution when Max Scherniewsky (23), a German, and Mairius Carl Louis Phansoon (29), a Dutchman, were found guilty of aiding a 34-year-old commercial traveller, Richard Sommer, to land without permission, and were recommended for deportation.

The principal witness for the prosecution was Sommer himself, who went into the witness-box after he had appeared in the dock and had been recommended for deportation. No penalty was imposed in his case.

A statement said to have been made to the police by Sommer, said: "When Hitler came into power in 1933 I was engaged to an Aryan woman, and so six S.A. men called at my private address to arrest me."

EXPULSION FROM FRANCE

"I happened to be at business and my father sent me word. I had some money and took a train for Paris immediately."

He was expelled by the French authorities after living there for two years by selling newspapers, and crossed to Belgium, where the Jewish Refugees Committee in Antwerp granted him relief and gave him 750 francs to leave the country.

He decided to come to England and in a coffee house in Boom, a suburb of Antwerp, a man named Max introduced him to a sailor who would take him to England for 750 francs.

The sailor took him aboard a ship in the harbour early one day and he stowed away in a hole behind the kitchen for two days, when the sailor took him ashore at Shoreham and he caught a train to London.

CAPTAIN WARNED

After the two seamen had been sentenced the captain of their vessel, the Oost Vlaanderen, was called before the magistrates and the Mayor of Hove, Councillor A. W. Hillman, told him: "If any further case of this sort comes before the Court the Bench will take a most serious view as far as the masters of vessels are concerned and heavy punishment will be inflicted."

"Newsgirl" Had £4,000 In Bank

Glasgow. Police searching the dingy Gallowgate tenement where Mrs. Blackburn, a 75-year-old crippled Glasgow newspaper seller, died recently, found bankbooks revealing her to have left at least £3,000 or £4,000.

For 30 years she had made her home in a slum, and spent her days propped at a corner of Argyle Street, one of the city's busiest thoroughfares, crying the news.

Apparently she was a widow, but to her neighbours she was simply "Granny" Blackburn.

REFUSED ALL AID

One of them said: "She lived by herself and seemed very poor. Time and again we offered to help her, but she would have nothing to do with any of us."

"We never thought for a minute she was all right for money."

"About ten years ago she had an accident and she had to walk with crutches after that. Even then she went her own independent way and would have nothing to do with the neighbours."

The police are trying to trace Mrs. Blackburn's relatives in Manchester.

CONVICT WHITNEY HAS PAY RAISED

New York. Richard Whitney, five times president of New York Stock Exchange, now serving a "five-ten" years' sentence in Sing-sing for misuse of funds, has had his prison pay raised from 25¢ to 75¢ a day.

Reason: Exemplary behaviour since his sentence in April. Whitney, ex-Harvard graduate, is now a prison schoolmaster.

SPORTSGIRL--PLAYS TENNIS

Court make-up

YOUR make-up for tennis must be one that will last, that won't get shiny or caked, that will protect your skin from too much sun, and will keep you looking cool and unruffled. Here are some do's and don'ts:—

Do:
Start by dabbling your face all over with astringent lotion, to close the pores and tighten up the skin generally.
Use a light foundation lotion or vanishing cream; anything that is at all greasy will work out through the powder and start to shine as soon as you get hot.
Put on a good thick coat of powder—and see that it is evenly distributed over your neck and forehead, too.
Put a touch of vaseline on your eyelids, but not eye shadow.

Use a moderate-coloured lipstick—nothing brilliant—and powder your mouth over after it's made up to keep the lipstick from smearing.

Don't:

Use much rouge—none at all. If you can, because when you get hot and your natural colour rises it will make the rouge stand out and look artificial.

Put any mascara on your eyelashes. It won't look right anyway, and is bound to run and sting your eyes. Brush your lashes with a touch of vaseline instead.

Let your hair run wild over your face. Tie it back with a piece of petersham ribbon. If you are particularly anxious to keep your hair in curl, wear a fine invisible net, exactly the same colour as your hair.

Wash your face in cold water when you come in hot; sudden change of temperature is bad for your skin. Wash it in tepid water, and take off the make-up with a soft cleansing lotion.

QUICK NEW STRENGTH AFTER ILLNESS

After a severe illness you feel so weak, you often despair of ever getting your strength back. Especially after operations, or wasting and other diseases, that affect your digestion, the thought of food is distasteful. Yet you must rebuild your body—you must have highly nourishing food.

Doctors everywhere recommend Horlicks as the food that not only can be easily digested, but that stimulates your faded appetite and pours quick new strength into your exhausted body.

Convalescence is shortened and in an amazingly short time you feel full of vigour and strength. Always keep Horlicks ready at hand.

In those difficult times of anxiety and worry, the task of carrying on and doing work which must be done is a doubly difficult one which must tend to exhaust one's nervous energy.

Horlicks builds up strength, vitality and prevents that listlessness and tiredness caused by constant nervous strain. H. M. Hodges, 406-408, Asia Life Building.

Glostora

First Impressions are important. A few unruly hairs can ruin the most carefully dressed coiffure.

Glostora conquers unruly hair—keeps every strand in place—adds sparkling lustre to your hair.

FOR LUSTROUS HAIR

—The most practical outfit is shorts and a shirt

CUT and line must be as good in your sports clothes as they are in your best evening frock. Better, perhaps, because you won't have any drapes or trimmings to deceive the eye. Nothing could be more simple—and practical—than a shirt-and-shorts outfit for tennis; nothing can look smarter if the cut is right.

There are three rules for smart shorts:—

1. Have them made in a fairly firm material that will wash well, press well, and not crush. Worsted flannel, for instance.
2. Don't have them too short; girl in the picture has hers a good length; shorter than that shows a rather ugly line of leg.
3. Have them absolutely plain-tailored, with enough fulness to get the hang and swing of a skirt.

WEAR as many coloured sweaters as you like, but stick to white for your basic tennis outfit; it always looks fresh and cool.

The girl in the picture here is wearing white worsted shorts, white shirt, and a lighter-than-navy blue blazer jacket and scarf. She's tied her hair back with a blue ribbon, has a blue stripe on her socks.

Notice the slanting side seams on the shorts; they are a slimming line for the hips. Pleats are put in at the sides, leaving front and back to hang straight, waistband is stitched.

Shirt is plain, like a man's, with one link button at the neck. (If you want to make it a bit individual embroider your monogram on the left side.)

Tucked in the neck, a lighter-than-navy blue silk square, matching the blazer jacket, to wear between sets. This blazer, buttons up the front with brass buttons, has revers but no collar, turn-back short sleeves.

Topcoat is white serge, easy-fitting, cut to hang straight but belted across the back.

White socks, made of a porous silk and cotton mixture, have a navy blue stripe running round their turnover edge; shoes, fairly solid, lace from near the toe.

Alternative to the shorts and shirt suggestion is so straightforward that it needs no fashion drawing; a white frock, made of thick silk or pique, with no sleeves, a plain V neck, and a skirt with an inverted pleat back and front.

Bits to cut out Skimmed Stock

ADD a cupful of cold water to your stock when it comes to the boil. You will find it much easier to skin.

Colour Problem

IF your ceru coloured lace curtains have faded you can freshen them and get the colour back if, when you are washing them next, you add a teaspoonful of strained coffee or tea to the rinsing water.

Crack-Proof

PIE dishes and casseroles can be made to bear better the strain of hot ovens without cracking if when they are new they are put into a large saucepan of cold water. Use a low gas and bring to the boil—boiling for about five minutes.

Tightlaced

IF you tie your shoe laces this way they can't come undone and trip you up. Before pulling the two loops tight, pass the right-hand loop a second time through the middle. Then pull the two tight.

Golf Organizer to Be Honoured

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Russell W. Montague, one of the founders of the first organized golf club in the United States, will be honoured during the White Sulphur Springs Open golf tournament here next November. Montague is a resident of Richmond, Va., and will make the trophy presentations during the tournament here.

Try this drink when you're hot and tired

IF you have a husband who leaves his appetite on the overcrowded 5.15 or children who come in from play too tired and hot to enjoy their food, give them this nourishing cold drink and leave solids until they feel rested.

Blend three tablespoons of orange juice, and one of lemon juice with three tablespoons of slightly warmed honey until they are perfectly mixed.

Add a pinch of salt and then beat in, a little at a time, half a pint of cold milk. The honey will prevent the milk curdling—although the drink may thicken a little—but it is safer not to make it until just before it is wanted.

The quantity is enough for three people.

DIFFICULT TASK IN PALESTINE

Britain Seeking Peace And Justice

London, Aug. 11. The British High Commissioner and the British Military Commander in Palestine are facing a task as difficult as any that has confronted the British military authorities in any country since the Great War, and their co-operation inspires confidence.

This declaration was made by the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, in a broadcast to-night, in which he described his recent visit to Palestine.

Mr. MacDonald said that the British Government would administer its trust on the basis of justice between the Jews who were building at long last a national home, and the Arabs, whose title to the land of their birth was indisputable. Sometimes, added Mr. MacDonald, man's powers of conciliation and creation appeared puny, but there was a spirit that brooded over Palestine, and, with God's help, peace would be restored to the Holy Land. —Reuter.

TERRORISTS ACTIVE

Jerusalem, Aug. 11. A Jewish workman was kidnapped by an Arab armed gang on the outskirts of Jerusalem to-day. Two Jews were seriously injured in an encounter with Arab bandits. A Post Office station has been held up by an armed gang and robbed. These are the highlights of to-day's incidents in Palestine. —Reuter.

CORRIGAN STICKS TO FLYING

New York, Aug. 11. Douglas Corrigan, the Irish-American aviator who recently flew the Atlantic "by mistake," has taken up a job as commercial pilot in an air line service in the United States. His commercial licence, which was suspended following his amazing trans-Atlantic flight, has now been returned to him. —Reuter.

CHINESE CAN HOLD LINES INDEFINITELY

Eye-Witness Tells Of Bloody Fighting And Attackers' Failure

Mahweiling, Aug. 11.

A Japanese battery silenced by three direct hits from a Chinese battery was one of the first scenes witnessed by Reuter's correspondent as he arrived at the battle-front to-day in time to watch an artillery duel in which the Japanese were trying to force a weak spot in the Chinese defences.

The Japanese are pounding away at what they hope is China's Achilles heel in an effort to end the stalemate on the south side of the Yangtse River that has lasted now for over a fortnight.

The flashes from the Japanese guns were plainly visible as the shells whizzed back and forth over the green landscape, under the shadow of the majestic Lushan Mountain, on the summit of which lies Kuling and its 300-odd foreigners.

Below the hill forming part of the Chinese defences, where Reuter's correspondent crouched, machine-guns barked viciously as Japanese patrols encountered the Chinese defences in bloody engagements. Evidence of these engagements were glimpsed as this correspondent was en route to the battlefield, in coolies bearing bundles containing captured Japanese rifles, gas-masks, etc., and also in the constant string of wounded walking or being carried on stretchers along the blood-bespattered path.

The entire battlefield is visible from the hill chosen as a vantage point. Away in the distance is the Yangtse River, which appears as a grey line on the northern horizon.

Out of Reach of Navy Guns

After retiring from Kiukiang, the Chinese forces are now holding strong positions in the wooded hills, out of range of the Japanese naval guns, and on a front running roughly north-west and south-eastwards. The right flank of the Chinese lines is based on Mt. Lushan. The Japanese forces, having occupied the level country to the south of Kiukiang, are now facing these positions. Their former superiority in mobility and mechanisation is gone now, and they are forced to meet the Chinese defenders on practically equal terms. In this mountainous region tanks and aeroplanes are almost useless. Japanese guns are battering the lowest point of the Chinese defences, where the railway to Nanchang provides the best point for an attack, but any attempt to storm the ridges occupied by large numbers of Chinese troops will cost them dearly.

"I Can Hold Them For Years"

The officer commanding the Shaho area told me: "Unless the Japanese bring much greater forces, and troops of a higher quality than those they are using now, I can hold them here indefinitely—for years if necessary."

The officer explained that the Chinese withdrawal from Kiukiang has been carried out under the orders.

"It was necessary to avoid a major battle in an area where the flat terrain favours the Japanese, and especially where we were within range of the Japanese naval guns in the Yangtse," he said.

"We retired in order to avoid unnecessary sacrifices," and came down to our new positions, from where the Japanese have unsuccessfully attempted to dislodge us for the past fortnight."

The Commander of the Chinese forces estimates that the present strength of the Japanese is three divisions, comprising over 60,000 men.

Personal observations made by Reuter's correspondent confirm the Chinese observations, leading to the conclusion that the Japanese forces will have the greatest difficulty in reaching Nanchang over country which is ideal for defence purposes. —Reuter.

Reinforcements Arriving

Nanchang, Aug. 12. The full on the Kiukiang front continues as the Japanese are still engaged in pushing up reinforcements and military supplies to Kiukiang in preparation for the next attempt to drive to Nanchang. The positions of both sides remain practically unchanged. Yesterday's fighting was confined to Kangtong, on the east bank of Chihu Lake west of Kiukiang, and the Shaho sector. Some 600 Japan-

ARMISTICE PLEASES GERMANY

Hopes Provocations Will Cease

Berlin, Aug. 11.

The armistice on the Russo-Manchukuo frontier is welcomed in German political circles.

A semi-official statement says that Germany regards a settlement of the conflict as desirable and adds: "The hope is expressed that henceforth on the Soviet-Manchukuo frontier Soviet Russian provocations which led to the conflict will in future cease and a solution based on justice—which is undoubtedly the standpoint of the Japanese—will take place." The Armistice, which has removed some anxiety from business circles, was responsible to some extent for the marked recovery on the Bourse to-day. Quotations increased generally, and prices closed considerably firmer than has been the case for the last two days. Nevertheless, recent losses have by no means been made good. —Reuter.

Doctor Drove Carelessly

Fellow Practitioner Complainant

Charged with failing to drive his car along Nathan Road on July 10 with due care and caution, Dr. Y. K. Wong was fined $20 by Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, when a representative appeared and pleaded guilty to the offence.

Acting Sub-Inspector J. Scrim said that Dr. Wong was summoned as a result of a complaint by Dr. F. H. Kew. The defendant was driving down Gascoign Road towards Nathan Road and the complainant was coming in the opposite direction, when the defendant turned right in front of the complainant's car. Complainant had to brake hard to avoid an accident.

Summoned for leaving her car unattended in Gascoign Road on July 9, a visitor from Shanghai, Mrs. J. D. Monkman, was fined $5. The police said the car was left in the road opposite the car park. Mrs. D. Monkman was fined $5 when she admitted that she had caused an obstruction by allowing her car to be parked 20 feet from the bus stop in Nathan Road on July 11.

A fine of $10 was imposed on Mr. C. C. Stark of the Hongkong Mines when he pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to maintain a lorry in a proper state of repair.

Inspector Scrim prosecuted, and said that he tested the brakes of the lorry on July 11 and found the brakes were no good. The foot brakes, at 20 m.p.h. stopped in 53 feet, whereas they should be able to stop between 25 to 30 feet.

A fine of $5 was imposed on Mr. E. Lopes who was summoned for driving a motor cycle along Nathan Road on July 8 without a front light. Another summons against V. M. Hammond, charged with driving a car against a red signal in Nathan Road on July 11 was remanded until to-morrow. Mr. M. A. da Silva will be appearing for the defendant.

Guns Silent On Troubled Border Now

Tokyo, Aug. 12.

Nichi-Nichi's border correspondent reports that all is quiet on the Russo-Manchukuo border. Both sides are maintaining the positions they held when the bugles announced the Armistice yesterday. Japanese newspapers advocate that negotiations for the demarcation of the frontier should begin as soon as possible. —United Press.

ese troops which again landed at Kangtong under smoke screens and occupied Pingtianshan and Wang-fushan, two strategic hills nearby, the day before, were repulsed by the Chinese in a counter-attack. Japanese reinforcements, however, have been rushed to the spot and fighting for possession of the heights is proceeding.

A clash took place at Hsian-pishan, a hill in the Shaho sector, some 17 kilometres south of Kiukiang. Japanese reinforcements of the 20th Division and the 13th Division joined fight. —Central News.

ing her armies or else concentrating them in one locality.—Reuter.

Chinese Reaction

Hankow, Aug. 12. Under the headline "Japan Knelt Down," the Ta Kung Pao, in a leading article this morning, says that the armistice in the north is due entirely to the fact that Japan gave way to Soviet Russia.

"Japan is a country unorganised, undisciplined and faithless," the newspaper says. "Events of the past years have clearly shown that the Government cannot control the military and the military cannot control the junior clique. In actual functioning, the Japanese Government is the military's tail, while the military headquarters are the juniors' tail. The blunders of the military clique in Manchukuo and Korea forced General Itagaki to kneel down before Japan's chronic enemy—Soviet Russia.

"But Soviet Russia should take every precaution. Judging from past experience, this may be only another Japanese measure to cheat her enemy. Last year the Japanese talked for over 20 days with Sung Che-yun before they dealt their final blow."—United Press.

first examinations and the number is steadily growing, though many more will be needed. The Chinese side of the A.R.P. has been chiefly in the hands of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, which has passed two persons through the senior grade as instructors, eight through the second grade, and has at the moment 200 people taking the first course and 60 people taking the second course.

The A.R.P. Officer stated that the European men were lagging sadly in this work, but he had not properly tackled them yet. He agreed that many men were engaged in voluntary services, such as the Volunteer Corps and Police Reserves, but added that the extra knowledge the A.R.P. courses would give them would be most useful in any event.

PLANS APPROVED

He revealed that Government already approved plans, identical with the model of a First-Aid Post shown at the exhibition, for a modern A.R.P. building to be built near the Technical School at Wanchai. This building will be splinter-proof and gas-proof and will also contain every requisite required by the population in the event of an attack. Besides being used as a store room in peace time, lectures will be given daily to Chinese and European classes. In an attack the building will serve as a shelter for that part of the Wanchai district. Plans for the building include a boiler house in the compound, administration offices, open sheds for taking off outer clothing, first aid dressing rooms, dining rooms, waiting rooms, clothing stores, and so on.

The whole building will be air-conditioned as it will be the store house for all the civilian respirators, protective clothing, and also for the protective clothing being made.

NOT CONSULTED

On the general aspect of A.R.P. precautions, Wing-Comdr. Steel-Perkins said he was aware that a few people had built their own underground retreats but he had not been consulted.

A recent visit to Canton convinced him that the bamboo tube protection for buildings was in fact not protection at all, and would not be considered if it was soon abandoned. Considering that experts ruled that three feet of sand between two thicknesses of concrete each three feet deep was the least adequate overhead protection against high explosive shells, bamboo tubes could have no protective effect at all and actually gave rise to the danger of fire from incendiary bombs.

In this Colony it was preferred to adopt the schemes already publicised rather than safeguard the tops of houses, as this latter course was impracticable. However, it was no secret that all Government buildings to be erected in the future would embody the latest methods in A.R.P. precautions. What these structural plans were, it would be unwise to reveal at present.

Two Extremes in Taxes

London, Ont.

The deadline for paying the income tax assessment was approaching. Two men were standing in line awaiting their turn. The first finally reached the receiving window and handed the clerk $4,000,000—believed the largest income tax payment of the year. When the first man had finished, the second then stepped up. He reached in his pocket and pulled out his income tax—a nickel.

Hit-and-Run
Drivers
Now HuntedTwo More Cases Known
To Police

Two further instances of hit-and-run driving were reported to the police yesterday.

A hawker, Ng Tak, suffered injuries when an unknown motor lorry knocked him down at Queen's Road East near Swatow Street and drove away without rendering him assistance.

Lo Lin, a 70-year-old woman, was knocked down by an unknown motor car, also in Queen's Road East, near Spring Garden Lane. In her case, the driver of the car removed her to the side of the road, and then continued on his way without notifying the police.

A seven-year-old boy, Wu Fung-lin, was taken to Queen Mary Hospital after he had been knocked down by a motor car in Garden Road near the Helena May Institute. He suffered a scalp wound.

Another boy, Lal Tung-chuen, seven, suffered head injuries when knocked down by a taxi in Mongkok Road. He was taken to Kowloon Hospital.

tions of the Government extending over a wide area are combining," he pointed out. "The Japanese difficulties in concentrating sufficient mechanised forces to accomplish the physical tasks of their offensive."

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek has determined to offer strong resistance if the Japanese launch a frontal attack on the Chinese right wing, through Nanchang and Changsha. If such a front is developed on a big scale the Japanese may meet very serious reverses as the terrain offers major difficulties for mechanised forces and the Chinese are well prepared.

"However," according to Mr. Snow, "present indications are that the Japanese operations south of the Yangtze will be confined to manoeuvres guaranteeing the security of the left flank of their main attacking forces, which are remaining close to the river."

Japanese Strategy

"The central mission of Japanese tactics in approaching Wuhan is the immobilization of the Chinese river defence system, and the severance of communications between the Chinese left and right banks. For this it may not prove necessary for the Japanese to attack Changsha. It seems likely they will have to take Nanchang. Their present plan appears to be a rather daring effort to lay down a narrow ribbon of occupation from Wuhu to Hankow, thus opening up the river to their naval forces which may be deployed for a leading part in the actual assault on the Wuhan cities."

Deciding Factor

"The deciding factor in the Wuhan campaign will be the ability of the Chinese forces to launch a counter-offensive on the Japanese flanks and rear both north and south of the Yangtze River. If the Chinese forces do not carry out such an action—and it is unlikely they will—the Japanese conflict does not create a major diversion in the north—the Japanese may succeed in occupying Wuhan without coming into a decisive battle with the main Chinese forces now massed between Nanchang and Changsha."

Mr. Snow denied the rumour that the Communists had threatened "independent action" if the Generalissimo did not accept their Wuhan defence plan. Relations between the Communists and the Generalissimo remained unchanged. For said, and reports to the contrary were inspired by elements for whom it was politically useful to spread such propaganda. "With what would the Communists carry out any independent action in Hankow?" Mr. Snow asked. "They have at most about 100,000 troops in the city. Or is it imagined that they plan to bring the Eighth Route Army down from Shensi and Hopei in order to seize Hankow? The notion is completely fantastic. "The major question before all parties in China to-day is embodied in the military and political problems of effective prolonged resistance. In this determination fundamentally the mass of the people is in complete harmony."

Will To Serve

Mr. Snow said that everywhere throughout the interior the national consciousness, the spirit of sacrifice, the willingness to be of service to China, had attained an unprecedented level. "It is no longer a question of will to fight and will to victory," he said. "It is only a question of finding organisational methods for the mobilisation of all the resources, all the human energy, and all the power in the reservoirs of the Chinese masses, whose strength has as yet hardly been tapped."

SUDETENS
MEET
HODZA'S
GROUPImportant Conference
On Czech Problem

Prague, Aug. 11.

The most important development in the Czech-Slovakian nationalities problem since Lord Runciman's arrival occurred this afternoon, when the Sudeten delegates, led by Dr. Kundt, met the Cabinet sub-Committee presided over by the Premier, Dr. Milan Hodza, and a Parliamentary committee of six, with the President of the Czech Senate and the President of the Chamber in attendance.

The Sudeten and Parliamentary representatives held their first real discussion at this meeting on essential problems connected with the nationalities problem.

The inclusion of the Parliamentary Committee in the meeting was the result of hard bargaining, and makes the Government delegation more unwieldy than Dr. Hodza had hoped.

A communique states that Dr. Hodza explained the Government viewpoint on his own measures and the Sudeten memorandum.

Discussion will be resumed on Wednesday next, when the Sudetens will reply to the Premier's argument.—Reuter.

PRESERVING SECRECY

Metz, Aug. 12. Many hundreds of German miners who formerly crossed and re-crossed the French frontier daily to work in French mines had their permits stopped to-day.

This was done by the German authorities as part of the measures taken to preserve secrecy regarding the work on frontier fortifications. Tank traps are reported to have been completed all along the frontier, and barbed wire sectors have been erected every 400 yards.

Work near the frontier is carried on during the night and ceases at dawn.—Reuter Special.

"This movement has already attained such proportions that it will require the diversion of huge forces of the Japanese army for some years to cope with it. A similar development inevitably will occur in the Yangtze Valley, if the Japanese penetration progresses."

"In the growing and underlying strength of this mass movement lies the principal guarantee that Chinese resistance will continue, with increased power, even if Wuhan should fall."

Mr. Snow plans to remain in Hongkong for a few days before proceeding to Shanghai.

British Award
For Crew Of German Ship

London, Aug. 11.

The Board of Trade has awarded a silver plaque to the German motor vessel Wilhelm Gustloff in recognition of the rescue of the crew of the British steamer Pegaway when she foundered about 25 miles north-west of Terschelling light on April 4, during a gale of hurricane force and in mountainous seas.

The Wilhelm Gustloff, then under the command of the late Captain Lubbe, answered the distress signals by the Pegaway and at 5 a.m. launched a rowing lifeboat in an effort to effect a rescue. Owing to heavy seas the boat was unable to reach the Pegaway and was subsequently abandoned.

At 6 a.m. the Wilhelm Gustloff launched its motor lifeboat, which succeeded in drawing alongside the Pegaway. At 6.30 a.m. the Pegaway was abandoned, the crew of 10 jumping into lifeboats and being taken on board the Wilhelm Gustloff. They were eventually landed at Hamburg on April 5.

The rescue took over an hour to effect and was carried out under very hazardous conditions. While the crew of the Pegaway were on the Wilhelm Gustloff they were treated with the utmost kindness by all on board and in Hamburg they were supplied with clothing and pocket money and helped in every way.—British Wireless.

Massed Bombers Cause Carnage in Wuhan Area

680 CASUALTIES IN SEVEREST ATTACK IN WAR'S HISTORY

Fleet of 30 Junks Blasted And Entire Crews Killed

Hankow, Aug. 12.

The heaviest Japanese air attack yet made on Chinese cities occurred yesterday afternoon, 680 being killed and injured and 437 houses destroyed. More than 100 Japanese bombing planes appeared over 13 towns in Hupeh, dropping altogether nearly 200 bombs, most of which fell in thickly populated districts.

Particularly serious was the damage in the towns of Wuhan and Hanyang close to Hankow. Altogether 63 Japanese planes were counted over these two towns alone.

In the bombardment of the munition depots of Hanyang, which had but shortly before been evacuated, a great number of bombs were dropped in the densely populated poorer districts on the Han River. Most of these bombs caused deaths.

A fleet of 30 junks was completely destroyed and the crews killed.

At the railway station of Wuhan 50 refugees who were waiting for the train were killed. An official count of the number of dead is not yet complete.

The entire Red Cross sprang into activity immediately after the bombardment began and is now engaged on clearing away the dead and wounded and looking for injured beneath the collapsed houses. In view of the suddenness and the violence of the attack the Chinese anti-aircraft guns could not act effectively and were moreover hindered by low-lying clouds.—Trans-Ocean.

Narrow Escape

Hankow, Aug. 12. At least six hundred people were killed or wounded in a devastating air raid on the Wuhan cities yesterday.

One hundred and two planes participated in the raids, but only 60 succeeded in entering the Wuhan area.

TURKISH PROTEST LODGED

Japanese Parley's Purpose Suspect

Istanbul, Aug. 11.

The "mystery meeting" of Japanese diplomatic and trade representatives at the Turkish capital has at last aroused the opposition of the Government.

The semi-official Anatolian News Agency announces that the Turkish Foreign Office has sent a note to the Japanese Ambassador on the subject, recalling press reports that the conference was directed against Soviet Russia.

Whilst expressing doubt concerning the accuracy of this assertion, the note goes on to say that, in view of the particularly friendly relations existing between Turkey and Soviet Russia, it would be difficult to suppose that Turkish soil had been chosen by the Japanese delegates as the venue for a conference pursuing anti-Soviet aims.

Apart from that, Turkey could not possibly express any implicit tolerance within her boundaries a conference directed against another State.

The note continues: "If the conference had been purely economic it might have been expected that the Japanese Government would have taken steps to inform the Turkish Government of the fact. In the absence, the Turkish Government feels bound to bring its views to the knowledge of the Japanese Government."

The meeting of the Japanese diplomatic and commercial representatives, which was summoned by the Ambassador at Istanbul, is being held in the Turkish capital behind closed doors, and no statement has been issued regarding its purpose.

Ambassadors, diplomatic and consular representatives and trade representatives were summoned from the Balkans, Soviet Russia, the Near East and the Middle East.—Trans-Ocean.

Big German Plane Hops Over Ocean

Lufthansa Experiments With Land Machine

New York, Aug. 11.

A four-motored Focke-Wulf monoplane landed at Floyd Bennett Airport at 3:50 p.m. E.S.T. to-day, after completing a crossing of the Atlantic in 24 hours 57 minutes non-stop.

The machine, which has been named the "Condor", is an all-metal plane with a wingspread of 106 feet, and is capable of cruising at 190 m.p.h.

It is owned by the Lufthansa Corporation and is the first land-type plane to make an experimental crossing of the Atlantic for this German corporation.

The "Condor" will leave New York on Saturday for the return non-stop flight to Germany.—United Press.

SECRET DEPARTURE

Berlin, Aug. 12.

The multi-motored plane secretly departed from Stank Airport at 7:50 p.m. on Wednesday on a non-stop flight to New York in order to "demonstrate Nazi efficiency."

The plane is piloted by Herr Alfred Henkel.—United Press.

It is learned from reliable sources that a group of prominent Chinese officials including Dr. Chu Chin-kuo, Mr. Chu Ye-tse, Dr. Andrew Lee and Dr. Chu Min-yi left Kai Tak aerodrome for Chungking yesterday early in the morning. It is also understood that they were recalled by the Chinese National Government for some important official affair.

It is also reported that Mr. Li Tsiang-shan, secretary to General Wu Teh-shen, Governor of Kwangtung Province, is here at present to make preparations for General Wu's official call to His Excellency Sir Geoffrey Northcote.

Mr. D. A. Murdoch was fined $5 for causing an obstruction with his motor car inside Queen's Pier on July 27. He was stated to have left the car under the archway of the pier from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. when he had accompanied friends who were embarking by launch from the pier.

For causing an obstruction in Douglas Street on July 26 with his car, S. F. Ip was fined $10.

A summons taken out by Mr. T. Parkinson, Quartermaster of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps, against a taxi driver, Lau Hung, for driving without due care and caution in Garden Road on July 6, was adjourned to 2:30 p.m. on August 30. Lau was represented by Mr. W. A. Macdonald, who pleaded not guilty.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Simon Lee, who was summoned on two counts for driving a car without an appropriate driver's licence on July 6, and for driving in a westerly direction in Chater Road on the same date. He had failed to appear in Court several times when his case had been called. Inspector Saunders said Lee had caused the traffic police quite a lot of trouble.

Moscow, Aug. 11.

M. Bulgakov, Premier of Russia proper, whilst discussing the Soviet budget in Parliament to-day, dramatically turned to M. V. M. Molotov, President of the U.S.S.R., and exhorted him to "continue to pursue a vigorous and unyielding policy towards the Japanese militarists."

"We will not only approve of credits for national defence, but will request the Government to use them entirely to strengthen Soviet armaments," he added.—Reuter.

MUDDLED DIPLOMACY

The unexpected has happened. Russia and Japan have agreed to patch up their dispute on the Korean-Manchukuo-Soviet border. Each side claims that the understanding is based upon the terms it offered, but it is of no great consequence who hit upon the acceptable formula. It is sufficient for gratification that the danger of extensive hostilities, and possibly the embroilment of other powers, has been avoided for a time at least; although commentators are generally agreed that this is merely a postponement of the inevitable. What appears to have happened is that Japan has made a diplomatic retreat, and has accepted the Russian contention that the negotiations to demarcate the Manchukuo-Soviet frontier shall be based on the old Sino-Russian treaty and maps of 1860. Previously the Japanese Government refused to recognise the validity of these documents, and it was here the deadlock occurred. Now Japan is willing to look at the evidence. That is sensible. At one time it seemed that neither side would make the slightest concessions or moderate its stand in any way for fear of losing "face" and weakening the national prestige. But all along both Russia and Japan must have recognised that their differences could not be settled by "isolated fighting" and that no matter which side had obtained an advantage, it would not have brought about a permanent peace. For this reason the Russians and Japanese—since it is impossible to blame one side more than another—have left themselves open to criticism for shortsightedness, stupidity and wastefulness in life and money, and a blundering diplomacy which could admit for a moment the possibility of a solution being found by force. Great Britain and the United States can point with some pride to the peaceful and practical settlement of their dispute over the sovereignty and future utilisation of Canton and Enderby Islands in mid-Pacific. By sane negotiation they have reached an understanding satis-

HERE IS ONE WAY TO PEACE

THE National Peace Congress has been meeting in Bristol. Attended by some 750 delegates representing 400 local and national organisations ranging from supporters of the League of Nations Union to members of the Peace Pledge Union, from representatives of the South Wales Miners' Federation to delegates from the Congregational Churches, from Communists to Baptists.

The variety makes for excitement, but it also makes for weakness. The weakness comes from disunity, for—let us be frank about it—there is no general agreement as to the steps we should take to seek peace and to ensure it.

Ever since the Abyssinian affair, the peace movement has been split on an issue of fundamental importance. Should we pursue a policy of Collective Security; form, if necessary, a new League of the peace-loving democracies, Britain, France, Czechoslovakia, the Scandinavian Powers, attach Russia and build upon this nucleus a united front to oppose aggression?

For Fascist aggression, it is argued, must be halted now or it will be too late; halted, that is to say, before Spain and Czechoslovakia have gone the way of Austria, and the dictators, triumphant over a prostrate Europe, turn their attention to the British Empire.

It is a strong case, but there is another side to it. To stop Fascism we must be prepared to fight it. "It cannot be claimed," said one of the advocates of this view, "that in the following of this policy there would be no risk of war."

Many have pledged themselves to renounce the use of force as an instrument for gaining their ends, even if the ends be righteous. You cannot, they say, demonstrate superior right by superior efficiency in slaughtering.

It is on these lines that the pacifists have argued, and their case, too, has force, as one of the supporters of "Collective Security" conceded by implication, when he confessed, "What I most dislike about this fellow Hitler is that, to withstand him, I have to become like him."

But it is idle to say—the clear-headed pacifist does not say—that the pacifist policy constitutes at the moment a practical method of avoiding war. For one thing, there is not the slightest prospect of this or any other country adopting it. Moreover, it is a hard doctrine to preach to men indignant over the betrayal of Spain, horrified by the rape of Austria, appalled by the wave of barbarism that is sweeping across the world; that they should fold their hands instead of clenching their fists.

This is the controversy that for two years or more has rent the peace movement. But a practical spirit has informed the present Congress, which has thought it more important to discover the agreement that might exist than to exploit the disagreements that were known to.

As the Congress proceeded, it appeared that there were two main issues upon which pacifists of all shades of opinion felt able to combine. The first is a policy for removing the economic causes of war.

Of the many causes of war, none will deny the importance of the economic. It is concrete, it is real and it is one which can in large part be removed. It should be the part of the constructive peace worker to remove it.

By what methods? They have been stated over and over again, most recently and most authoritatively in the Van Zeeland report. Without accepting all the provisions of this report, the Congress showed it—

Let us add the development and control of civil aviation and the preparation of plans for the settlement and assistance of refugees and we have a policy of constructive peace-making with which it would be a difficulty for anybody to find fault.

Secondly, there is the need for vigilance in the matter of our liberties. The memory of the last war is still vivid; the spectacle of the dictator countries all too clear. Each serves to remind us of a danger—forcibly brought out by Mr. Kidd, Secretary of the National Council for Civil Liberties—the danger lest in seeking to increase the country's efficiency in war, we may hand over our destinies to those who care for nothing but war efficiency.

There are proposals afoot, for example, compulsory participation in the National Fitness Campaign, compulsory participation in Air Raid Precautions schemes, plans for industrial conscription, for the dilution of labour in munitions factories, for the suspension of trade union regulations, each of which represents a step in the regimentation of the nation in the interest of military efficiency.

The Congress was unanimously resolved not to allow our liberties to be lost at home in order that we might be in a position to defend ourselves against the danger to liberty from abroad.

Here then, is a lowest common denominator upon which all those who care for peace can combine. The removal of the economic causes which are driving the nations to war, and the vigilant defence of the liberties of the citizen against the war machine.

By C. E. M. Joad

self in sympathy with its general conclusions.

First, the democratic nations must take the initiative and institute among themselves free trading agreements on the lines of the Oslo Agreement and the Anglo-American Trading Pact. The raw material resources of the British Empire must be made available for all the world with equal trading facilities, free from embargoes and restrictions, for all nations. Economic and financial assistance should be rendered to the stricken countries of Eastern and South-Eastern Europe.

The mandate system should be strengthened and internationalised and applied to all those countries which are not immediately ready for self-government.

NEWS FROM BUDAPEST

By W. Horsfall Carter

many calling the tune. The Italian support on which the Regent and the Duce had leaned in recent years has turned out to be a broken reed. But there is also trouble brewing from the Hungarian Nazi factions which have rallied behind Major Francis Szalasi under the sign of the arrow-cross.

This typical "crisis" movement has its cells throughout the Administration and the Army. It derives its mass-strength from the farmers reduced to proletarian status by the slump in agricultural prices, associated with the million or so landless labourers, and the impoverished bourgeois who have nothing to lose but their brains.

The history of Hungarian politics since the war has been the same as that of the other countries that have succumbed to Fascism: Parliament losing touch more and more with the people, and the governing class thirsting for no leader strong enough to achieve in time social and economic reforms sufficient to stem the rising flood of discontent.

Hungary's "National" Government can devise no better expedient in the gathering storm than to try and take the wind out of their opponents' sails.

Hence the new anti-Semitic legislation which requires that Jewish control of any business or organisation shall not exceed 25 per cent. Hence, too the Pressenovelle, reinforcing the Governmental control of the Press and extending it to the book trade, hitherto unmolesied.

Another expedient is the Five Years Plan of public works and rearmament, which is the work of Dr. Imredy, the very able Governor of the National Bank, and now Prime Minister.

Dr. Imredy has made good use of the wireless in his few days of power and has certainly stopped the rot which set in after the shock of the Austrian coup. And if Hungary's problem were economic, the helm of State could not be in more capable hands. But Dr. Imredy, like his predecessor, lacks political appeal, and an ardent Catholic, he has no taste for the new demagoguery.

A visit to Budapest just now is thus a rather depressing experience, for all the human kindness and lavish hospitality of one's Magyar hosts.

Superficially, the disciplined uniformity of the totalitarian State seems very far away. With its astonishing variety of tones, its cultivated intelligent ruling class of land-owning aristocrats—so unlike the Prussian Junker type—its abundance of newspapers, reviews and books of differing political shades, the eight and sometimes twelve-hour sittings of an overworked Parliament, etc.—Hungary would appear to possess a capacity of resistance to the Nazi steam-roller lacking in Austria, or in the Balkans. The impression is true enough.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

By Lichty

"Look! And all MY kid ever says is 'Daddy, gimme a dollar!'"

There can be no question of annexation of the Reich. German domination, on the other hand, seems unescapable. With Field-Marshal Raab as Minister of War, the Army in any case can be relied upon to be an obedient instrument of the German will, and in these "strategic" days the Army's role is decisive.

By opening the sluices to German influence, for the sake of securing a powerful champion of the national cause of treaty revision, the Magyar ruling class has undoubtedly prepared its own discomfiture, perhaps indeed dug its own grave.

More significant perhaps than any political trend is the fact that Hungarian owners of property are eagerly seeking protection from the wrath to come by securing foreigners as tenants at a ridiculously low rate. Fear stalks abroad—and Hungary is completely cut off from the West. The shadow of Herr Hitler is spreading like a huge shroud over what remains of civilisation in the Danubian basin. Not so much military or economic strife as "atmosphere" is what counts these days in Europe.

And the Western Powers remain the victims of their own inertia, incapable, apparently, of building up the diplomatic, economic and military barrage for which thinking Hungarians pray.

That is why in this anniversary year of St. Stephen, who made Hungary Christian, a charming, civilised people seems doomed to take the first steps downhill towards a barbarous Paganism.

GREAT FILM COMBINES UNITE TO BOOST BRITISH PICTURES

Plan Means More U.S. Cash For Us

By Moore Raymond

TWO GREAT FILM CORPORATIONS, ONE BRITISH AND THE OTHER AMERICAN, HAVE COMBINED TO PRODUCE AND PUBLICISE BRITISH FILMS ON BOTH SIDES OF THE ATLANTIC.

This was announced recently by Gaumont-British and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer after conferences lasting a fortnight.

An official statement said that G.B. would in future produce for M.G.M. in this country, that M.G.M. would distribute these films in England, and that G.B. would handle them in America with its distributing organisation there.

Anglo-American co-operation of this kind will stimulate production in Britain, and will provide many thousands of pounds of American money for the making of those British films.

M.G.M. will in future put up half the cost of production of any film made by G.B. or its subsidiary company, Gainsborough Pictures.

Therefore two of the biggest film companies in the world (G.B. has capital of £6,250,000 and M.G.M. of $30,000,000) will be working together for their mutual benefit.

The official announcement issued jointly by Mr. Isidore Ostrer (chairman of Gaumont-British) and Mr. Sam Eekman (managing director of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in England) states:—

"The first of the films under this arrangement is 'The Lady Vanishes,' directed by Alfred Hitchcock.

"It will be followed by a Jessie Matthews picture, directed by Carol Reed; and another, starring Will Hay, directed by Marcel Varnel.

"Maurice Ostrer will be in charge of production, together with his producers, Edward Black and Victor Peers.

"The most recent success of the Gaumont-British and Gainsborough Studios, 'Owd Bob,' starring Will Hay, is making history at the moment in America.

"Undoubtedly Anglo-American co-operation and friendship will be furthered by this arrangement, and the advantages to G.B. and M.G.M. must also prove beneficial to the entire future of British films."

LION AND LADY

Mr. Maurice Ostrer said: "It is a feather in our cap to get the American distribution of the pictures we shall make for M.G.M."

"We have had a distributing organisation over there for years, and M.G.M.'s consent to our handling the British product we make for them shows how we are co-operating."

Asked if the two famous trademarks, the M.G.M. lion and the Gainsborough lady, would both precede any film made under the new arrangement, Mr. Ostrer said: "Yes, first the lion—then a title that states 'Gaumont-British presents a Gainsborough picture'—then the Gainsborough lady."

HOPE FOR FUTURE
I asked if the G.B. studios at Shepherd's Bush, where 200 people were thrown out of work when production ceased there in April last year, would reopen as a result of the new agreement.

"Not at the moment," Mr. Ostrer said. "We'll make the Will Hay film at the Gainsborough studios, and the Jessie Matthews picture at Pinewood. But Shepherd's Bush may reopen later."

An M.G.M. official said: "This deal will not make any difference to our own production over here."

M.G.M. encouraged by the success of their 'Yank at Oxford,' starring Robert Taylor, have scheduled at least another six British films to cost nearly £1,000,000.

265 M.P.H. Torpedo Flying Boat

A Torpedo-carrying flying-boat, introducing a new class of aircraft, has been produced by the Boulton Paul Co. of the United States, and may be adopted for the American navy.

Torpedo-carrying aircraft were pioneered by Great Britain, and many squadrons of the R.A.F. and the Fleet Air Arm are equipped with them.

They are either land aircraft or are specially adapted for employment in carrier ships or other warships. In this respect the new American type differs from them, for it is a flying-boat designed to co-operate with a fleet for defence against submarines. It is considerably faster than any British torpedo bomber in service.

There is, however, a new British type in production, the performance of which has not been divulged. Among new British designs not yet in production there is a torpedo-carrying flying-boat.

The "battleship submarine destroyer," as the new United States craft is called, has a twin "Wasp" engine of 950 h.p. It is claimed that it has a maximum speed of 265 miles per hour and a cruising range of 1,200 miles.

It carries a crew of four, with armament consisting of one 1,000lb. torpedo, three 200lb. bombs, and two fixed and four movable machine-guns.

Franco Gets His Revenge

GENERAL FRANCO got his own back on "Potato" Jones recently, two of seven bombs dropped from a lone hydroplane hitting and sinking the 1,451-ton steamer Dellwyn in the British-owned port of Gandia, south of Valencia.

The Dellwyn is one of three "Wyn" ships trading to Spain and is managed by Angel, Conn and Co., of Cardiff. "Potato" Jones is a director of the company.

He made a name for himself in April 1937 by being the first captain to run General Franco's blockade of Bilbao.

His ship then was the 885-ton potato-carrying Marie Llewellyn; and his most-quoted "warcrack"—"Spanish Navy? Never heard of it since the Armada."

Insurgent bombers never gave him peace after that, although he changed his ship.

At the end of last year he "swallowed the anchor" (retired), and bought himself an interest in the shipping company.

But Franco's attacks on the "Wyn" ships continued. The raid on the Dellwyn was the sixth attempt to get her. She has been machine-gunned, and attacked with incendiary and high-explosive bombs.

No one was injured. Captain William Elliott and his crew were ashore when the Dellwyn was bombed.

The ship was sunk in only 10 ft. of water, and her cargo of 1,500 tons of coal can be salvaged easily. The cargo has been authorized by the Non-Intervention Committee.

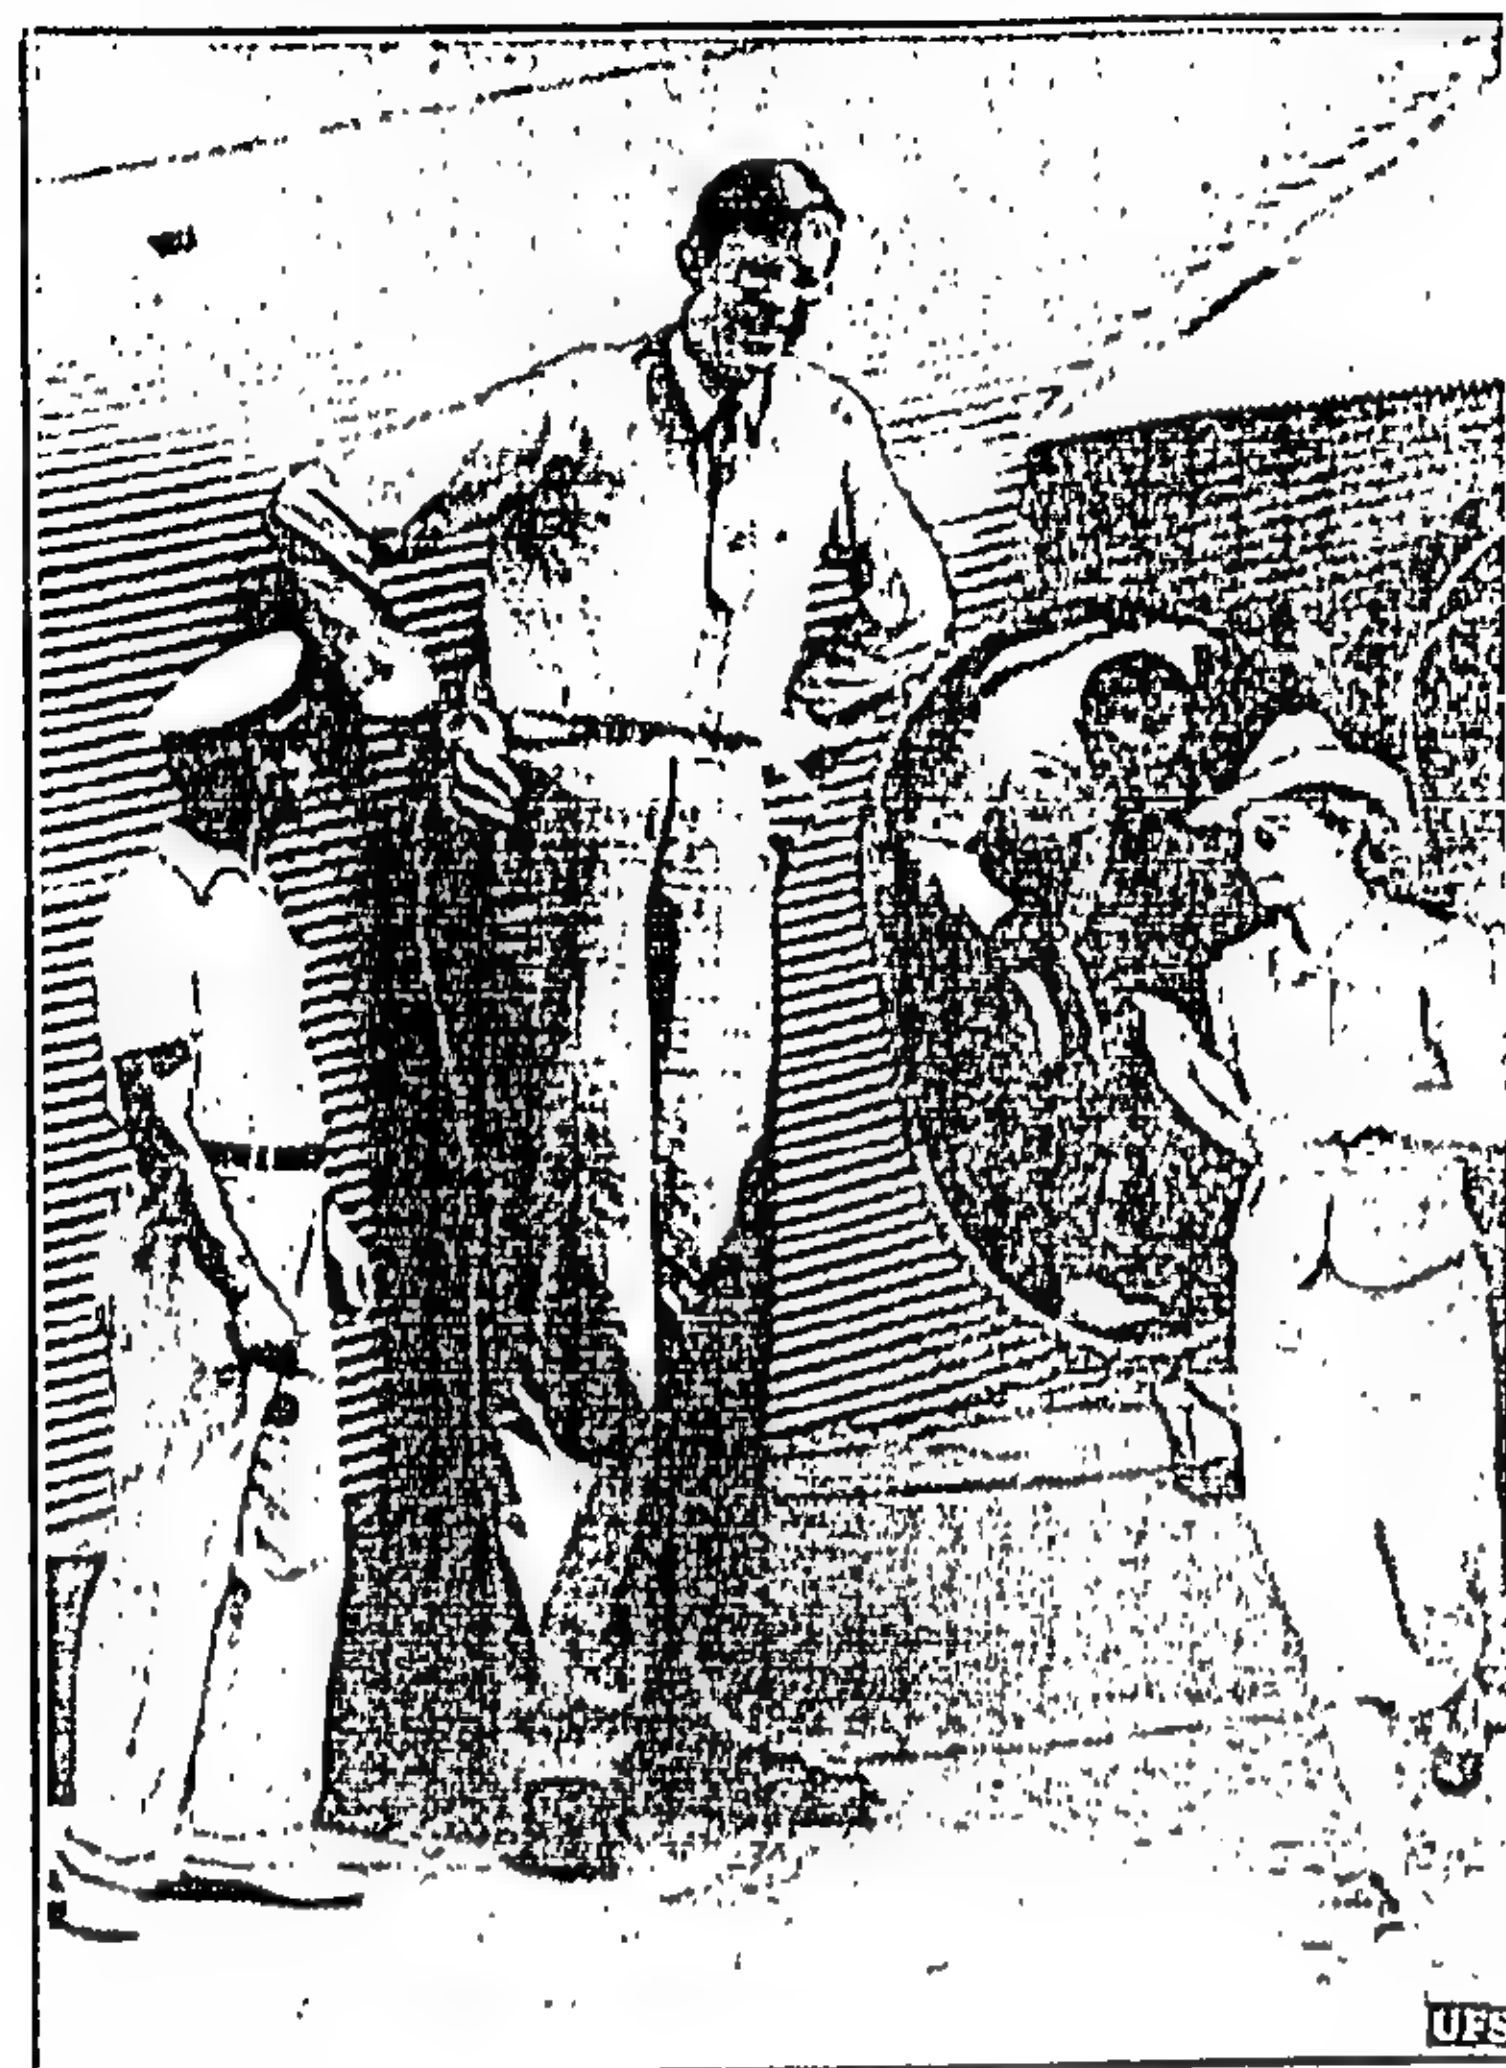

Gandia is not protected by anti-aircraft guns, and the raiding plane had a simple job. One bomb wrecked the dock sheds, another tore up 30 ft. of railway track—all British-owned and prominently displaying the Union Jack.

Angel, Son and Company could not tell "Potato" Jones the news. They do not know where he was. "He's on holiday," a reporter was told, "somewhere on the coast between Swansea and Scotland."

Girl Baptised In The Sea

Part of a big crowd on Weymouth (Dorset) beach, protested noisily after Pastor T. Ryder, of the Four Square Gospel Church, had baptised a girl and a man in the sea. People, arguing, surrounded the pastor.

The girl, Miss Gladys Jackson, twenty-one years old, of Park Road, Walford, Hearts, claimed after the ceremony that she had been cured of paralysis.

Robert Wadlow, giant youth of Alton, Ill., as he went for an air ride in St. Louis, Mo. While still growing, Wadlow, who was 20 on Washington's birthday, is believed by scientists to be reaching the completion of his phenomenal stature. He stands 8 feet 8½ inches and weighs 465 pounds.

WED TO GET HER LEGACY OF £12,000

A GIRL who entered into a "marriage of convenience" so as to claim a big inheritance sat sobbing in the dock at Bow-street.

She was Mrs. Anne Godwin Mitchell, aged 22, of Carzon-street, Mayfair, W., who was placed on probation on condition that she temporarily entered a Church of England home.

She was accused of obtaining goods and credit by false pretences or fraud.

Mr. E. A. Carr, prosecuting, said in one case Mrs. Mitchell bought a suit worth £8 10s. 6d. and gave a cheque which was returned marked "R.D."

She also gave worthless cheques for meals at Quilley's Restaurant. In another case she hired a car and was driven to Croydon and back, and gave the chauffeur a worthless cheque for £3.

"It appears," said Mr. Carr, "that under her grandfather's will she was due to receive between £12,000 and £15,000 on attaining the age of 21 or if she married before."

FORGED CONSENT
"To get possession of this money she married a man named Mitchell in July, 1936. It was apparently purely a marriage of convenience to comply with the terms of the will."

"Mitchell apparently received some consideration, for I understand he has never lived with her. That is perhaps the beginning of all this trouble."

"At the time of the marriage they apparently forged the consent of their parents, for they were both under age and their parents knew nothing about it."

A banking account was opened for Mrs. Mitchell by the trustees at Pontypool, Glamorgan, continued Mr. Carr, and over a period £5,500 was paid in.

Other money had been advanced by the trustees.
"From May, 1936, until early 1937," said Mr. Carr, "Mrs. Mitchell must have got through about £3,000 or £3,500, and after that a number of cheques, 87 in all, and one for £700, have had to be returned."

"THIS WILD ORGY"
"She was living the life of the very wildest extravagance, and having been known as a young woman of considerable wealth, no doubt that assisted her in getting this remarkable amount of credit."

There were other offences which Mrs. Mitchell wished to be taken into consideration.

Mr. Norman Parkes, defending, said Mrs. Mitchell's mother died three years ago. Her father was not well off.

"With all that money," he added, "Mrs. Mitchell soon became the prey of a large number of people who 'sponged' on her and led her on in this wild orgy of extravagance."

Whatever happened, her husband was not in a position to support her, even if he wished to.

Born— But Not Officially

Police are faced with the strange task of helping babies in the Finsbury, Camberley and Basingstoke areas of Surrey to prove that they are alive.

The year's register of births, marriages and deaths has been stolen from Camberley Registrar's office.

Until it is found people who have not copies of official registrations cannot legally prove their existence.

IN STOLEN SAFE

Burglars carried off an iron safe weighing 1½ cwt., and containing £20 in silver, a cheque book and the register.

"If it costs £1,000 we must have those books back," a representative of the Registrar-General told a reporter.

AT 80— "PERFECT LOVE"

Twice married and father of ten children, the Rev. W. T. Dutton, of Cawley-road, Chichester, claims at the age of 80 to have found his perfect love.

He told the Sunday Dispatch recently.

"She is 60 and a widow, but doesn't look a day more than 40. 'It was a Whitsun romance and of all the hundreds of women I have met I know she is the one for me. She is filling a much-needed place in my heart.'"

His fiancée, whom he will marry next week, is Mrs. Halsey, of Chichester—and she has 10 children, too.

The filming of "Northwest Passage" here was seriously threatened owing to the scarcity of whalers. However, an SOS call for 150 men with beards who knew how to swim and were not afraid of cold water and baby boys lying on the ground, finally solved the problem.

British Liner Sees Dutch Tanker Stopped

Mediterranean Incident
Gives Rise To Rumours

London, Aug. 11.

Reports which were in circulation yesterday that a British liner had been interfered with by an armed trawler in the Straits of Gibraltar on the occasion of a statement by the Union Castle Company to-day for the purpose of relieving possible anxiety on the part of the travelling public.

The Company says that the a.s. Llandaff Castle was not ordered to leave to by an insurgent armed trawler.

The facts are that a Dutch man-of-war signalled to a Dutch tanker, then immediately ahead of the Llandaff Castle, to leave to by firing a blank shot.

It was not clear, however, which ship was intended to leave to so the Commander of the Llandaff Castle reduced his speed, but on seeing the signal immediately proceeded at full speed ahead.

Meanwhile the usual insurgent patrol, which was in the vicinity, cruised round but did not signal or interfere in any way.—British Wire-les.

TOMMY FARR GIVES UP BRITISH BOXING CROWN

SHELAEFF OUTFOUGHT BY YOUNG ALDE BUT GIVEN DECISION

First Call Of Draw Booed; Recount Of Points Favours The Champion

Given the biggest boxing lesson of his life by a past master in the art of ringcraft, who tied him up at all quarters and gave him no chance to unleash that famous deadly right, Andre Shelaeff, welterweight champion of the Orient and of China, retained his titles before a large Canidrome crowd in Shanghai last week, when he was given a most doubtful decision over the veteran Filipino, Young Alde, in a fight which went the whole distance of ten rounds.

With the crowd clamouring for a decision for Alde, Referee Fallace first announced that a draw was the judges' decision and this was met by a loud chorus of boos and very few cheers. As the crowd was leaving, however, Len Rose, the announcer, jumped into the ring and announced that the decision should have been awarded to Shelaeff, the referee having miscalculated the final points. Here again shouts of disapproval filled the hall.

Some amusement was caused soon after the principals had entered the ring. Young Alde discovered that he was wearing his pants inside-out. Hurriedly leaving the enclosure he shortly re-appeared with his nether garments on the correct way. Weighing 143 lb. Andre Shelaeff was given a rousing reception as he alid through the ropes, and Young Alde, weighing 8 lbs. more was also well-supported by a large section of the crowd.

The preliminaries over both fighters came out warily with Shelaeff attempting to crowd his man into a position where he could bring his damaging right into play. Alde was too clever, however, his weaving and bobbing tactics leaving the champion nonplused. Every time he unleashed a blow it went wide of the mark and Alde, boxing coolly was easily the master in science.

CHAMPION TAKES SOMETHING

In the second round the wily Filipino tied the Harbin boy up with his clever tactics, surprising the champion in the later stages with clean-cut lefts which found their mark on the face and body. A damaging right, however, by Shelaeff at the end of the round shook the Filipino.

Attacking strongly all the time, Shelaeff failed to register a clean hit in the following round and the

RAIN WASHES OUT DAVIS CUP TIE

Montreal, Aug. 11. No play was possible to-day in the Davis Cup match between Australia and Japan in the final of the American Zone owing to rain.—United Press.

Finally announced a draw, boos and catcalls came from all sides. A few minutes later Len Rose stepped into the ring and pointed to Shelaeff as the winner, the referee having apparently misjudged the final points.

The rest of the card was disappointing, the semifinal bout between Vladimir Gravitsky and Paul Loinikoff, both well-known Shanghai boxers, going the full distance.

Rather more in the form of a cudgeling match than a fight, Loinikoff, who did attempt to mix matters was a popular winner on points.

A fine study of Tommy Farr, the British heavyweight boxer, who has given up his British heavyweight championship, which he won from Ben Foord last year. The British Boxing Board of Control has accepted his resignation and has decided that Len Harvey should meet Eddie Phillips for the title.

CONTROL BOARD DECLARES TITLE TO BE VACANT

ED PHILLIPS MATCHED WITH LEN HARVEY

London, Aug. 11. The British Boxing Board of Control has accepted Tommy Farr's resignation from the British heavyweight championship, which he won on March 15, 1937, by beating Ben Foord, of South Africa, on points at the Harringay Arena.

The Board of Control declares that the British title as well as the Empire title are now vacant, and decided that Len Harvey will meet Eddie Phillips for the British championship.—Reuter.

Following his success over Ben Foord, Farr beat Max Baer on points at the Harringay Arena exactly a month afterwards and later in the year he lasted 15 rounds against Joe Louis for the championship of the world.

Since then, however, his stock has slumped, having been beaten both by Jimmy Braddock and Max Baer.

NOW IN AMERICA

Farr is at present in America where he had arranged to meet Maurice Strickland for his British Empire Title, but this was not recognised by the B.B.B.C. Farr sailed from England after refusing to pay the fine imposed by B.B.B.C. in their findings on the charge brought by Sydney Halls, a London promoter, of having failed to comply with the terms of his contract.

Eddie Phillips, who beat Ben Foord in the elimination bouts, was the recognised challenger for the Empire title and the B.B.B.C. had given promoters until August 5 to arrange a bout between him and Farr.

will probably be Tony Linn, Lum's brother-in-law; Ferber, Read, Will and Wright. Tentative fixtures for the contest include three singles and two doubles. The meeting will be held over three days. Shanghai's representatives will be chosen from Lewis Carson, W. A. H. Duff, C. C. Squires, Humberto Coliaco, du Pac de Marsoulles and John Berents. No Chinese player in Shanghai at the moment seems to be strong enough to challenge any of these players.

Visit To Java

A VISIT to Java by a Malaya tennis team next year will be heartily welcomed in Java tennis circles, commented Mr. E. H. J. Gobee, acting captain of the Java team, in Singapore when it was announced that such a visit was proposed next year. Tennis in both countries would benefit, he said, and the return visit might be the beginning of regular tennis matches between the two countries. The suggestion has already been made that the Java championship should be held immediately after the match, and that probably will be done. There is little to choose between the standard of tennis in Malaya and in Java, said Mr. Gobee. Malayan players are especially good in doubles. The Java team, which met Malaya in the recent match, was beaten by the odd match, but the visitors considered their performance quite a satisfactory one though they lost, because the match was played on grass whereas the Javanese players were accustomed to concrete courts. The visiting players also took part in the Malayan championships.

Tennis Interport

TIENTSIN will send a team of tennis players to Shanghai at the end of this month for an Interport contest. Definite word to this effect has come to Mr. Max Spiegler, Hon. Secretary of the Shanghai L.T.A. According to a Shanghai report, Mr. Spiegler has also tried to arrange a series with Hongkong. Gordon Lum, one of China's foremost players, will most probably captain the Tientsin team, and among the players

ANOTHER FALSE REPORT ABOUT DONALD BUDGE

U.S. Boxing Squabble Does Not Seem To Make Sense

DENIALS have followed so closely and so regularly in the wake of reports that Donald Budge, the famous American tennis player and holder of the world's "Big Four" titles, contemplates turning professional that the latest report-and-deni-al act could have occasioned no great surprise. Most American sports writers seem to be agreed that Budge some day will capitalise on his ability to play tennis better than most people; but they are far from being unanimous regarding when he will take the plunge. When a young man plays tennis as well as Budge does, it is only to be expected that substantial offers would be made to him to induce him to turn "pro"; and unless he is particularly well off, he would not be human if he were not tempted. Obviously, turning "pro" means more than just signing on the dotted line; it means commitments which have to be discharged, and whether one is in the mood for it or not one has to keep on playing tennis willy-nilly. But whichever view one holds, it cannot be denied that professional tennis for a man of Budge's class means big money. Ellsworth Vines and Fred Perry have been making a great deal since they went over the line, and they do not seem to regret having taken the plunge. No-one blamed Vines and Perry; in the same way, no-one will blame Budge. After all, as Perry once said, a man cannot support himself by merely collecting an assortment of trophies and looking at them in his old age. If he has a chance of raking in a portion of worldly wealth, who will criticise him if he accepts? Budge now discounts the reports that he is about to join the ranks of professionals, but it will surprise a lot of people if he continues to do so after the Davis Cup Challenge Round has been played. With Budge in the team, the United States is certain to retain the trophy. It may be that his loyalty to the Davis Cup Committee is keeping him back.

For What Title?

BOXING squabbles in America, it appears, are generally the rule rather than the exception. Sometimes these squabbles make sense; sometimes they don't. The latest one, between the New York State Athletic Commission and the National Boxing Association, would certainly appear to be in the latter category. According to the N.B.A., the forthcoming fight between Henry Armstrong, the negro welterweight and featherweight champion of the world, and Lou Ambers, who holds the lightweight crown, is for the lightweight as well as the welterweight crowns, whereas the N.Y.S.A.C. cling to their decision that it will only be for the lightweight title. The decision of the N.Y.S.A.C. seems to be manifestly unfair to Ambers, who stands to lose his lightweight crown without

CHINA BASKET BALL TEAM WON ALL ITS MATCHES

Singapore, Aug. 3. The China Basket-ball team played their last match in Singapore at the Great World last night against a Singapore-Pennang combined team. After a very keen fight the China team won, 38-39.

The China team leaves for Siam tomorrow. With last night's match included the China team played at Singapore twelve matches, and won them all. The matches were in aid of the China Relief Fund.

A packed gathering watched last night's game, which provided plenty of thrills. The China team held the upper hand in the first period to lead 22-11 at the interval. The home team put up a determined fight in the second session and got two points more than their opponents.

MISS LUMB IN FINAL AT HAMBURG

Hamburg, July 15. Miss Margaret Lumb reached the women's final in the German lawn tennis championships to-day, beating Miss Nancy Wynne (Australia) 6-3, 6-4. She will now meet either Miss Valerie Scott (Great Britain) or Fr. Sperling (Denmark).

Mme. R. Mathieu (France) won the women's singles championship of Wales for the second successive year, defeating Mrs. R. A. Seal (Cardiff) 6-4, 6-4 in the final at Newport.

Mrs. R. D. McKelvie and Mrs. J. B. Pittman qualified for the final of the Princeton women's singles. Mrs. McKelvie beat Miss S. Noel by 6-4, 6-1. Miss K. E. Stammers led Mrs. Pittman, by 6-2, 4-0, when she had to retire having strained a tendon in her foot. W. C. Choy, of China, defeated K. C. Gandar Dower by 6-2, 6-6, 6-1 in the semi-final round of the men's singles, but the match between J. S. Olliff and A. Nicolaidis could not be finished owing to rain.

K. Lasn (Estonia) defeated H. E. Weatherall 3-6, 6-2, 6-0 in the semi-final round of the men's singles at the Reigate tournament. In the final Lasn will play G. E. Bean, who beat G. W. O'Connor in two sets. Mrs. H. S. Ueber joined Miss J. Marquis in the women's singles final.

MISS HARDWICK WINS SCOTTISH WOMEN'S TITLE

Miss Mary Hardwick won the Scottish women's lawn tennis singles championship at Peebles, beating Miss D. Bundy (U.S.A.) 6-2, 7-5 in the final.

Miss Hardwick has a chance of triple honours, for she is in two other finals to-day—the women's doubles and the mixed doubles.

BROWNS SURPRISE INDIANSLatest Results In U.S. Baseball

New York, Aug. 11.

Only one match was played in the National Baseball League to-day, but a full programme was carried through in the American section. Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds had a titanic struggle. Their match went to 14 innings before the Reds won out by 8-7, helped by a home run by Lombardi.

The greatest surprise in the American League programme was the double success of the St. Louis Browns over Cleveland Indians. The Browns won by the odd run in the first game, but in the second they had a very comfortable victory.

New York Yankees had another win over Washington Senators, Philadelphia Athletics beat Boston Red Sox and Chicago White Sox beat Detroit Tigers.

Scores:

OUR GUIDE TO THE CINEMAS

"Paradise For Two" (King's Theatre, to-day).—Our own Jack Hulbert and Hollywood's Patricia Ellis in a new, bright version of the old story about the millionaire and the chorus girl. One of England's very much better musical comedies.

"Wives Under Suspicion" (Queen's Theatre, to-day).—An unusual story, well-acted by the two principals, Warren William and Gail Patrick. Supporting the main picture is the film of the recent fight between Joe Louis and Max Schmeling for the heavyweight boxing championship of the world.

"Go Chase Yourself" (Alhambra Theatre, to-day).—Joe Penner and a wild ride down a mountain road in a runaway trailer are the pieces de resistance of this slapstick farce. Joe is the witless hero of a witless plot which requires him to save an heiress, capture bank robbers and perform other foolish but entertaining feats. Lucille Ball, Richard Lane and June Travis are also in the cast.

"Hollywood Hotel" (Oriental Theatre, to-day).—To say that this is a Dick Powell picture is sufficient to give film fans an idea of what the film is like. Plenty of music, with the love interest supplied by Powell and Rosemary Lane and the humour by Hugh Herbert.

"Dead End" (Majestic Theatre, to-day).—One of Hollywood's serious pictures. A social drama with Joel McCrea and Sylvia Sydney.

W. C. Choy In Singles Semi-Final

From A. Wallis Myers

Frinton-On-Sea, July 14.

Neither R. A. Shayer nor the Countess de la Valdene is at Frinton this week to defend the singles cups, but the entry is better in quality and quantity, and to-day, when the semi-finalists came into line, the size of the gallery reflected the public interest.

A Chinese victory in the men's event is suggested, although not assured, by the serene progress of W. C. Choy, who has only lost five games in reaching the last four. Roger Williams, with his heavily topped forehead drive and contempt for the slow game, is no mean opponent, but he was forced to hit many losers against the controlled speed of the Chinaman. It will be interesting to see, to-morrow, whether Choy is proof against the insidious balling of Gandar Dower.

Despite an attack of tennis elbow, Gandar Dower was always the master of O. F. Wilson. Yet their match took a more speculative turn in the second set, when Wilson's lob assumed a vexing accuracy and his adversary had to use slice so that he could not make them.

John Olliff opened with a love set against Leyland, achieving a sequence of wonderful half-volleys against a strong driving attack. But several of the games ran to deuce points and one felt that if Olliff failed to hit the chalk less frequently, Leyland's vigour would be rewarded on the score sheet.

OLLIFF'S DOUBLE FAULTS

It is levelling of the second set at five-all was the fruit of gallant hitting and he had bad luck not to take the lead in the 11th game, in which Olliff served four double faults.

In the 12th game Leyland was saving match balls again, but Olliff had recovered from his bad patch.

To-morrow the winner will meet Nicolaides, the third Cambridge Blue to enter the semi-final.

In joining Miss Stammers in the women's last four, Mrs. McKelvie and Mrs. Pittman were not extended, but Miss Noel had to draw heavily on her physical reserves to maintain her unbeaten record against Miss Harvey. Her winning stroke was a speeded-up backhand drive down the line after she had tempted Miss Harvey to come up expectantly for a job.

This long match, indeed, was full of masked design.
G. P. Hughes and H. G. N. Lee are competing in the doubles, and to-day advanced to the semi-final. Details: Mrs. Stammers 2nd Rd. J. S. Olliff 6-2, 6-3; F. D. Leyland 6-0, 7-5; G. Nicolaides 6-2, 6-3; Page 6-4, 2-6; W. C. Choy 6-1, 6-0; Williams 6-0, 6-2; K. C. Gandar 6-0, 6-2.

Kho Sin-kie Scores Two SuccessesBERLIN TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS

Berlin, Aug. 12.

China's tennis star, Kho Sin-kie, now taking part in the Blue White International tournament here, has a chance of reaching the final of the mixed doubles.

Playing with Fraulein Hamel, Kho and his partner defeated the German couple Fabian and Fraulein Rasmussen by 6-1, 6-4, thus getting one round nearer to the final.

In the men's doubles, Kho figured in another victory. He and Beuthner, of Berlin, defeated Janczko and Gerstel, a Berlin combination, by 6-3, 6-2.—Trans-Ocean.

Remarkable men have remarkable mothers

IT is an interesting psychological fact that remarkable men seldom have remarkable children.

On the other hand, many great men have great mothers—or certainly remarkable ones.

Chaliapine, who has recently died, told many stories about his mother's powers of endurance, fortitude, and intelligence. His father was a confirmed vodka drinker and wife beater—a combination which hardly constitutes a great man.

Bernard Shaw owed his salvation to his wonderful mother who lived to be over eighty. For nine years in London she supported him while he made exactly fifteen shillings. He paid his tribute in his Irish way: "I did not throw myself into the battle of life. I threw my mother into it."

Shaw's extraordinarily business-like habits, methods of work, and financial dealings, together with his total abstinence from wine, are due not to the example of his father but because his father was a hopeless muddler and tippler.

LORD BYRON'S father was in no sense impressive.

But his mother was wholly remarkable. She possessed dynamic powers. The famous scenes between mother and son reveal that she was no ordinary woman. The two would quarrel over something. Thereupon she would tear her shawl in pieces, and he would grind his watch under his boot.

Then she would throw some psychologists have tried to get china on to the floor, and in return he would fire off pistols in the room—after which each of them would go to the neighbouring apothecary to inquire if the other had been there to buy mother!

BUONAPARTE'S father was prosaic enough, but his mother was a violently patriotic, ironical, strong, managing woman. She birched the Man of Destiny when he was 16 for making faces at his grandmother.

When at the age of 32 he sent her a lot of money with which to make a display she put it by and continued her customary economies. "When it is all over," she said, "you will be glad of my savings."

THE history of biography of any country unquestionably supports the statement that the above examples are typical. There are exceptions of course—the Pitts, for instance.

There are some seeming exceptions—for instance, John Stuart Mill's father, James. But James Mill made his son learn Greek at the age of three. To do such a thing to a child is not to prove yourself a great man but a great ass. The boy never got over it.

Both Hitler and Mussolini claim to have had amazing mothers. Taking advantage of this, some of our theoretical

It may be objected that only great men have been given as examples here, and that men are always prone to praise their mothers.

But the same often holds true of the mothers of great women. Mary Woolstonecraft, Jane Austen, Rosa Luxemburg, Sarah Bernhardt, Eleonora Duse, to mention a mere half-dozen, all had remarkable mothers, while little seems to be known about their fathers.

It seems clear that scalding emotion, great intelligence, profound realism, spiritual fire is more easily transmitted from mothers to children than from fathers.

All of which makes mothers appear more important than fathers! Well, women give birth to children. Men know that. Indeed, they have heard about it quite a lot. But they persist in thinking that the children belong to them, physically and psychologically, as much as to the mothers who do nine-tenths of the production work.

That is an error. History proves it.

RUSSIA IS GOING BACK TO CHURCH

By Harold A. Albert

(A Journalist and traveller, now on a journey of investigation into world problems.)

IT was a revelation to me to find that Russia has churches, clerics, and religion.

One cannot help thinking of the Soviet in terms of irreligion and godlessness—a country lacking priests, churches, and faith. Yet the deplorable humourless chairman of the Union of the Militant Godless had to admit not long ago that about 50 per cent. of the adult population of Russia have not severed all ties with religion.

When the soldiers of the "Red" Army had to fill in a questionnaire on their religious views 70 per cent. had the temerity to confess that they believed in a Deity. During the Russian Orthodox Easter men and women in more than 30,000 parishes went to church, just as their fathers did before them.

Moscow's 20 churches were reported crammed to capacity for the all-night services. Even the official Government newspapers have had sufficient freedom of conscience lately to state that the number of young people attending church services is steadily increasing.

Freedom of Conscience

It is true that Russia's churches once opened only at their parishioners' peril. Mass arrests of clerics were everyday incidents. The anti-religious campaign of ten years ago was ruthless and violent. Church bells were torn down and sent to the melting foundries for industrial purposes. Churches were sacked and blasphemous processions marked the Christmas, Easter, and other festivals.

As recently as 1932 a "Godless Five-Year Plan" was embodied in a decree issued with the object "not to leave a single house of prayer in the territory of the U.S.S.R., and to extinguish in the minds of the people the very notion of God."

All that changed 18 months ago when the new Soviet Constitution came into being. Almost overnight it granted, in the official words, "freedom of conscience, including the right of religious worship, speech, and assembly, to all but capitalists."

Keeping Within the Law

The Orthodox Church had long since been disestablished and its property confiscated, church schools had been abolished, and the teaching of religion to all persons under 18 had been forbidden. But the priest had regained the right to live on voluntary alms from his parishioners. Toying with his privilege, he discovered that Russian youth could be allowed to sing in church choirs. Preaching to his congregation, the cleric need only keep within the law by turning his back on his choirboys.

There are 165,000,000 people in Russia. A third of them have declared themselves for Christianity. As many again may belong to the Moslem faith, and the atheist almost falls into a minority. Significantly enough, the number of christenings has tripled since the coming of the new Constitution.

The Church has fought its awful battle against the State, and it appears to be winning, despite the overwhelming odds.

The religious in Russia must not form themselves into clubs or charities. They must not walk in procession except within the churches. They must not preach religion outside the church doors. In the Soviet to-day men and women are already talking of a new Renaissance.

Mussolini to appoint him undersecretary of the air. It was in this post that he reorganised and modernised Italy's flying forces. After winning his pilot's licence he turned to mass formation flights. His two most spectacular flights were to Brazil and to the United States in 1930 and 1933 respectively. Upon his return from the Chicago flight Mussolini shifted him to the post of governor of Libya.

Count Paolo Thaon di Revel

'Count di Revel' was appointed Duke of the Sea in 1918 for the part he played as Commander of the Naval Forces during the World War. Born of an old aristocratic Genoese seafaring family on June 10, 1859, in Turin, di Revel carried on the tradition of the family by going to the Marine School of Genoa from which he was graduated in 1877.

From the post of second lieutenant in 1880, di Revel quickly climbed in rank and as a result of his work in the Italo-Turkish War was named rear admiral.

As commander of the naval forces during the World War he resorted to the strategy of harassing the Austro-Hungarian navy, thus keeping it bottled up in the Adriatic throughout the conflict.

Italy's High Command

MARSHAL BADOGLIO NO. 1 FIELD LEADER, WITH MUSSOLINI AS SUPREME STAFF COMMANDER

By JOSEPH D. RAVOTTO
United Press Staff Correspondent

Benito Mussolini, who has guided the political and spiritual destinies of Italy since 1922, is commander-in-chief of the armed forces and in the event of war would take active command.

It was in his senate speech on March 30, that the Duce declared that "in Italy war would be guided by the person who speaks to you under the king's orders." After that speech, the Chamber in an extraordinary session named him "First Marshal of the Empire."

Mussolini is essentially a statesman and his knowledge of fighting strategy decidedly limited. His role in warfare undoubtedly would be confined to that of an advisory capacity in charge of administration and organisation. The Duce, however, would certainly participate in staff discussions.

The effective leader of all the armed forces would be war-scarred Marshal Pietro Badoglio, chief of the general staff and supreme commander of Mussolini's East African adventure in 1935.

Commands Would Overlap
The double overlapping command of all the armed forces exercised by Mussolini and Badoglio would find a similar parallelism of leadership in each of the three services.

Nominal chiefs of each of the three services would be Gen. Alberto Pariani, undersecretary of war; Gen. Giuseppe Valle, undersecretary of air; and Admiral Domenico Cavagnari, undersecretary of navy. Mussolini himself holds the ministerial portfolios in each of the three departments.

These three undersecretaries underwent thorough military studies so that their ranks are not of an honorary nature. They are chiefs of staff in their respective services. Nevertheless their roles in a conflict would be as departmental heads in charge of organisation and administration under Mussolini's command.

The three active leaders in charge of the fighting forces would undoubtedly be: Army—Marshal Badoglio, who would assume double command of the army and all the armed forces; Navy—Grand Admiral Paolo Thaon di Revel, commander of Italy's naval forces during the World War; Air—Marshal Italo Balbo, member of the quadrumvirate and governor general of Libya.

During the World War, the Italian navy had its own separate leader. Bernasconi, former commander of the high speed centre at Desenzano graduated from the Military Academy in charge of the Italian air force in 1920. His first fighting came in the Italo-Turkish War. Vallo distinguished himself during the various bombardments and reconnoitring flights aboard a dirigible.

He served with the dirigible corps during the World War, winning the Military Cross of Savoy and two silver medals for bravery. After the war he defended the Italian colours in the Gordon Bennett trophy. He was appointed undersecretary of the air by Mussolini in 1929 after directing the Air Academy of Caserta.

In 1932 he participated in the massed flight from Orbetello to Brazil, as second in command to Balbo. The following year he was appointed undersecretary of air.

Admiral Domenico Cavagnari is Genoese, who made Italy's best sailors. He was born on July 20, 1870, and when only 15 was sent to the Naval Academy of Leghorn, Italy's Annapolis.

After participating in Italy's disastrous campaign of 1906, he took part in the Italo-Turkish War. In 1927, he was promoted captain at the beginning of the World War. Cavagnari commanded a daring of torpedo-chasers in the Adriatic during the war. In 1927, he was appointed director of the Naval Academy of Leghorn. He was named Marquis of Sabotino, a title of nobility, in 1927.

Mussolini appointed him director of the Naval Academy of Leghorn. He was named Marquis of Sabotino, a title of nobility, in 1927.

The most popular of Fascists, next to Mussolini himself, is Air Marshal Balbo. He was born at Ferrara on June 2, 1885. He quickly exhibited qualities of leadership which displayed themselves when he went about recruiting recruits for the Black Shirts movement in the days preceding 1922.

When 19 he enrolled in the Fascist movement and was chiefly instrumental in forming the "flying squadrons" which carried out raids against communists and socialists who were gaining control of Italy immediately after the war.

He rose to the post of commander-in-chief of the Fascist Militia. His arduous career caused his undoing as he was dismissed from the party for

In 1929 Mussolini called him back to Rome as undersecretary of national economy. Restless to create something new he persuaded Mus-

Gen. Alberto Pariani is the youngest commander-in-chief in the Italian Army. Born in Milan on Dec. 27, 1870, Pariani was graduated from the Military Academy of Modena.

He distinguished himself in the World War and was sent to Versailles during the Peace Conference. In 1927 he was sent to Albania on an arduous mission and two years later was raised to the rank of Gen.

Gen. Giuseppe Valle was born at Sassari, Sardinia, on Dec. 7, 1866. He was something new he persuaded Mus-

DELAY OF RESPONSE EXPLAINED

No Lack Of Goodwill Among Insurgents

London, Aug. 11. It is authoritatively stated that the insurgent authorities have informed the British Agent in Burgos, Sir Robert Hodgson, that the delay in answering the British communication regarding the plan for the withdrawal of volunteers was exclusively attributable to the complicated nature of the document, and not to any lack of goodwill.—Trans-Ocean.

Actions For Possession Numerous

Court Cannot Help Business Tenants

In spite of the enactment of the Prevention of Evictions Ordinance, the number of possession cases does not show any decrease, and in the Summary Court this morning no less than ten such actions were mentioned in the weekly calling-over list before Mr. Justice E. H. Williams.

The majority of the cases affected business premises, concerning which His Lordship once said he was afraid he was unable to help the tenants, as the Ordinance does not provide for such a contingency.

Tam Ki-cheung, carrying on business as the Young Tai Trading Company, in the western portion of room No. 4, 6th floor, China Building, was ordered to leave the place at the end of September, following an action by his landlords, the Chinese Estates, Ltd. Defendant told the Court that it was extremely difficult to find alternative premises, and added that his landlords had been very unreasonable for the reason they wanted back the place was to re-rent it at a higher rate.

His Lordship: I am afraid I cannot help you because the place is not used for dwelling but for business. You must give up the premises at the end of September.

Defendant: If plaintiffs want a higher rent I am prepared to pay it.

His Lordship: That is a matter between you and the landlords.

Defendant: I have offered to pay more but they have refused to accept.

His Lordship: I cannot help you, I am afraid.

That the tenant used the premises as an opium den was the allegation made by Mr. Peter H. Sin, solicitor for Sing Han-fong, who brought an action against Lam Chuen, claiming possession of an address in Ewo Street, ground floor. Mr. Sin added that the tenant was also behind in his rent. The case was adjourned for a week.

A similar allegation was made by Mr. F. G. Nigel, representing Kung Main-shun, who asked for the possession of a flat in Wooning Street, ground floor, from his tenant, Tang Chan. His Lordship ordered that possession be given up on September 2.

The remaining cases were either settled or adjourned.

THIEF CAUGHT IN ACT

Sentence of six months' hard labour was imposed on Yeung Chung-shui, 24, unemployed, by Mr. Butters at the Central Magistracy this morning, when he was charged with the theft of a leather suitcase containing 14 pieces of clothing, a gold finger ring, four children's bracelets and $6 in Chinese currency from a house in Queen's Road West yesterday.

Insp. W. Mair said the owner of the property, Yu Chau, 30, a motor driver, was having his meal when someone told him that a man was carrying a suitcase down the stairs of the house. Yu went out, and saw Yeung waiting by a bus stop. He recognised his suitcase and arrested Yeung. The total value of the property was $65.

Yeung admitted two previous convictions.

"Newsgirl" Had £4,000 In Bank

Glasgow. Police searching the dingy Gallowgate tenement where Mrs. Blackburn, a 75-year-old crippled Glasgow newspaper seller, died recently, found bankbooks revealing her to have left at least £3,000 or £4,000.

For 30 years she had made her home in a slum, and spent her days propped at a corner of Argyle Street, one of the city's busiest thoroughfares, crying the news.

Apparently she was a widow, but to her neighbours she was simply "Granny" Blackburn.

REFUSED ALL AID
One of them said: "She lived by herself and seemed very poor. Time and again we offered to help her, but she would have nothing to do with any of us."

"We never thought for a minute she was all right for money. About ten years ago she had an accident and she had to walk with crutches after that. Even then she went her own independent way and would have nothing to do with the neighbours."

The police are trying to trace Mrs. Blackburn's relatives in Manchester.

CONVICT WHITNEY HAS PAY RAISED

New York. Richard Whitney, five times president of New York Stock Exchange, now serving a "five-to-ten" years' sentence in Sing Sing for misuse of funds, has had his prison pay raised from 21¢ a day to 72¢ a day.

Reason: Exemplary behaviour since his sentence in April.

Whitney, ex-Harvard graduate, is now a prison schoolmaster.

AIR MAILS SPEEDED

To-night the R. M. A. Daedalus will arrive from London and Australia. This will be the first time the two mails from Australia have arrived at Hongkong by air in one week.

The Daedalus will leave for Bangkok on the return flight on Tuesday when the Delia will return with the inward mail.

During the same period there were three cases of dysentery, making the total 583, and three cases of enteric fever.

The Foreign Exchange market is again nervous and the French Control Board was compelled to intervene and defend the franc by large sales of sterling.

The latest rumour in the financial district is to the effect that dealings in gold coins may be barred.—Reuter.

Valencia, Aug. 11. Machine-gun bullets struck a British steamer, whose name at present is unknown, and a number of bombs were dropped near her, in the course of an air raid on Valencia to-day.
